NAZIS SMASH INTO FRANCE; GREAT BATTLE ON MEUSE

Germany dealt smashing blows in the war in western Europe today. The French conceded the fall of historic Sedan—10 miles inside the French border in the fortified Franco-Belgian defense zone—directly before France's "Little Maginot" line extension to the North sea. It was here that France suffered her most disastrous defeat of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870. Sedan is only 146 miles from Paris.

The British acknowledged that Nazi blitzkrieg legions were driving through southern Holland to make the situation there "extremely serious" for the Allies.

The Dutch field army defending western Holland fell back before the savage German onslaught, retiring to the main water-line defense line in Utrecht province, the high command announced.

Berlin reported German forces in central Holland have blasted through the Dutch Grebbe defense system and are advancing toward Utrecht. Junction with 'chute troops at Rotterdam has been made, the Nazis say, and the Dutch forces have been cut off from any help from the Allies or from Belgium.

In fact, say German military sources, the Dutch are in a position where they must surrender or face annihilation.

Huge Oil Stores Afire

The Hollanders set afire huge oil stores in the Amsterdam area as The Netherlands forces again retreated.

The Allies, according to German sources, are retreating everywhere. The Franco-Luxembourg and Franco-Belgian borders as far as the heights of Merzieres-Charleville "have been reached almost everywhere and crossed at many points," the official German communique said. The German forces are advancing in the triple pincer movement so effective in Poland, when they will loop Antwerp, Brussels and Namur, the Nazis say.

Present German moves are compelling the Belgians to withdraw rapidly, it was said, in order to avoid complete encirclement. The extreme right prong of the Nazi advance has already reached 25 miles north of Antwerp, while the left, pushing from Great Gette, is only 40 miles to the southeast.

The second line of Belgian fortifications in the Louvain region along the Dyle river remains to be broken. Forces advancing from Liege are approaching Waterloo, others nearing Brussels and a third group pressing south along and across the Meuse river.

Every Engine of Destruction

The Belgian government announced it would remain in Brussels despite reports German invaders were advancing on the capital.

The Belgian army command, however, admitted further retreat of their forces.

Dive bombers, destroyer planes, tanks, flame throwers clashed in a horrible display of mechanized fright.

More than 3000 tanks battled in two separate engagements on Belgian soil. Both French and German high commands claimed victory.

Hundreds of planes are being downed on both sides. The air is a titanic maelstrom of spitting lead, a continuous thunder of roaring motors.

Authorized German sources declared that German motorized and mechanized units, co-operating with the air force, had made such amazing progress in the past 24

British Chiefs Warn Plight Grave, Deny Liege Capture

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—A military source said today the Germans were smashing through southern Holland with strong attacks which make the situation there "extremely serious" for the Allies.

Warning strongly against over-optimism about the Lowlands campaign, this source said that in Belgium British troops now were co-operating with Belgians in covering Brussels.

He added that a great battle was developing in the area east of Brussels.

"It will be a few days yet," this source said, "before we can estimate the position in this phase of the war."

The German attack was described as bearing to the west rather than to the south, and observers here expressed the view the smash at Sedan—which the Germans reached today—is part of the drive against Belgium, rather than the beginning of a blow against the Maginot line. British sources said there was "no confirmation" of a real attack on the Maginot line thus far.

The military source asserted that it is regarded in London as "likely" that Liege is isolated.

But he added:

"We believe that fighting is going on in the (Liege) citadel and have no reason to believe that Liege has fallen or need fall in the near future."

The situation in Holland was described in a Netherlands army communique broadcast from Holland and heard in London:

"The northern provinces are fully in the hands of the enemy."

"Efforts by the enemy to take the enclosing dam of the Zuider Zee (IJssel Meer) which connects the province of Friesland with the province of North Holland, in which Amsterdam is situated, have been so far frustrated.

"Rotterdam on the north side of the river Maas is in our hands. Den Helder, the northern point of the province of North Holland which is the main military base, is in our hands."

"The position in the province of Brabant is uncertain. The province of Zeeland is in our hands. Our frontier troops have been withdrawn to the water line. Our defense organization is still working despite losses which have been sustained."

"The struggle is difficult, but the fight is worth while. It is a fight for our independence and existence for the freedom which was won centuries ago by our Prince of Orange."

Sedan Falls to Hitler; Battle on 80-Mile Line

PARIS, May 14 (AP)—The French city of Sedan, in the fortified zone 10 miles below the Belgian border and 146 miles from Paris, "probably has been taken" by the Germans, a French military spokesman conceded today as the fiercest battle of the war developed along the Meuse river.

Thousands of Allied tanks, armored cars and airplanes engaged the German attackers from Liege, in Belgium, to Sedan.

The "battle of the Meuse" already was being called "the greatest battle of all times in all countries."

French dispatches estimated that the Germans were using from 600 to 7000 airplanes on the Belgian front, with Liege being subjected to incessant bombing since midnight.

The high command earlier had acknowledged the Germans, gaining momentum in their sweep through southeastern Belgium, had crossed France's northern border.

OVER 80-MILE FRONT

A military communique disclosed that the German advance was part of a push which carried the Nazis to the Meuse on an 80-mile front from Sedan north through the Belgian town of Namur to Liege, key point in Belgium's eastern defenses.

Heavy fighting started last night and continued today along the Meuse line to which French and Belgian troops fell back on strong position in a strategic withdrawal.

At least 2000 tanks on the two sides have clashed in combat.

Thousands of warplanes, both bombers and fighters, are in the battle.

Artillery has been brought up on both sides.

Along the French-Belgian frontier, another battle zone is formed on the salient from Sedan through Montmedy and Longwy clear to the Moselle river.

LIEGE FORTS STILL HOLD

BERLIN, May 14 (AP)—The Belgian and Dutch armies have been separated by a powerful German wedge, DNB, official German news agency, reported today from the western front.

It said that French and British forces were unable to reach the Dutch armies to help them and that the Dutch, therefore, either must surrender or be annihilated.

The German tactics, DNB declared, has rendered unimportant Belgium's Albert canal position which was conceived as a strong defense line between the North sea at Antwerp and Liege, near the German frontier—in other words, from the Scheldt river to the Meuse.

CROSS INTO FRANCE

German troops crossed into France today, the fifth day of the Nazi blitzkrieg through the lowlands, and the Nazi high command declared they also had smashed through last defenses in Belgium and the Netherlands.

Today's communiqué claimed these successes:

FRANCE—The French-Luxembourg and French-Belgian border up to the point of Mezières-Charleville has been reached nearly everywhere and crossed in many places.

(A French war office spokesman in Paris at lunch told that Sedan, in the fortified zone 10 miles below the Belgian frontier, probably was in German hands.)

HOLLAND—We succeeded in expanding our piercing of the Grebbe line southward of Amersfoort and gained area in the direction of Utrecht . . . our troops . . . pierced through as far as Rotterdam.

LIEGE FALL DENIED

BELGIUM—The city of Liege is in German hands. In the region south of the line from Liege to Namur our troops left the Ardennes (mountains) behind and vanguards reached the Meuse between Namur and Givet.

(Both French and British military sources dispute the German claims to Liege. They say the only part in the Liege defense captured by the Germans is Eben Emael, 10 miles to the north.)

A heavy tank battle was fought north of Namur, with the Germans attacking Allied tanks after Nazi bombing.

(The French claimed victory in the battle and called German losses "tremendous.")

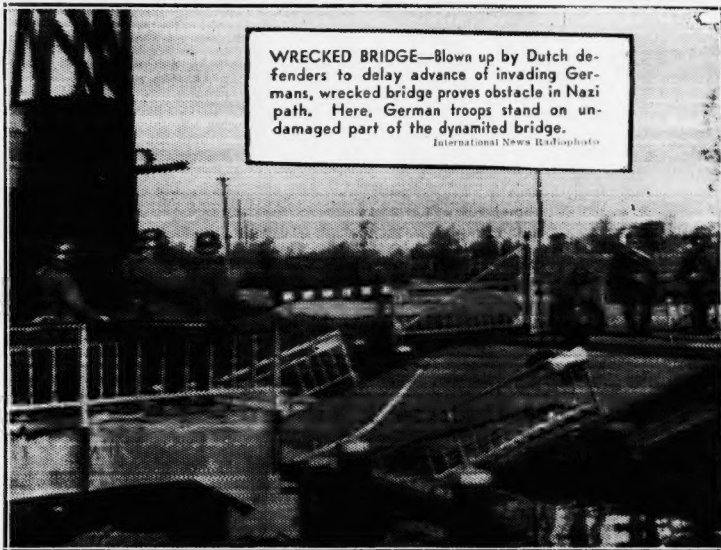

The penetration of French soil, the high command said, was made "under the protection of continuously attacking German fighting planes, stulgas (dive bombers) and destroyer-plane units."

Apparently the Germans had ad-

BULLETINS

LONDON, May 14 (INS)—Japanese returning from Batavia today reported that natives there have launched an emancipation movement against Dutch rule, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokyo.

LONDON, May 14 (INS)—More than 1000 German and 400 Dutch members of pro-German organizations have been arrested in the Dutch East Indies, Reuters reported today from Singapore, quoting a passenger who arrived there by air from Batavia.

PARIS, May 14 (INS)—In a concerted drive against possible "fifth columnists," all Germans and Austrians of fighting age in Paris were rounded up today, allowed 50 pounds of baggage and two days rations and herded into Buffalo stadium for removal to places of internment.

5 BAY STATE FAMILIES TO WIN N. Y. FAIR TRIP

One full week of happy, exciting days at the New York World's Fair of 1940, without one cent of expense, even for transportation and housing, for some family in Massachusetts.

Free transportation to and from Boston and the Fair, free meals, free housing, free entertainment, free guides—everything free!

The fortunate family whose members will enjoy this wonderful week is the family who will be chosen as the Typical American Family in Massachusetts in the contest conducted by the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser, in co-operation with the World's Fair management.

It's the chance of a lifetime to view the most lavish exposition of all time as honored guests and under expert guidance, and families have until midnight, Saturday, June 15, to submit their entries. But the quicker they are submitted, the speedier the judging will be.

During the week of July 22, the family winning first award will be guests of the Fair management and will make their home in one of the two model FHA houses just completed on the grounds.

TRAVEL IN STYLE

Before this family leaves for the exciting week, the members will be completely outfitted for the trip and stay by Sears Roebuck & Co., the firm which also has completely furnished the two FHA houses.

And for the trip to and from the Fair, transportation will be made available by the Ford Motor Co. in one of the latest Ford models driven by a company chauffeur.

In addition to this first prize for the winning family, there will be four other trip-prizes for the next four families chosen as runners-up.

Second prize will be free transportation, round-trip, between Boston and New York, via New Haven Railroad; free admission to the Fair for the three days; free entertainment tickets and free guides—plus $40 in cash.

Third prize will be free transportation, via American Airlines, free admission, free entertainment tickets and free guides, three days—plus $30 in cash.

Fourth prize will be free transportation, via Eastern Steamship Lines, with cabin and meals free, plus free admission to the Fair, free entertainment and guides for three days, as well as $20 cash.

OPEN TO ALL

And Fifth prize will be free transportation, via New Haven Railroad between Boston and Providence and Colonial Steamship Lines between Providence and New York, with free staterooms and meals, plus free Fair admission, entertainment and guides, and $20 cash.

The contest is open to all families of American citizenship residing in Massachusetts. Families of any size may enter, but under arrangements with the Fair management, only two children may accompany the parents on the trip, and the elder of these two children must not be over 18.

The simple rules for this contest—there is nothing to buy—are published elsewhere in these columns, together with the official entry form.

And the judges are the following: Gov. Standish, chairman; State Sen. Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose, chairman of the special committee on participation in the New York World's Fair of 1940; Mrs. John H. Kimball of Boston, former president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the women's advisory committee on participation in the World's Fair; Mrs. Bradley Baldwin Gilman, prominent Worcester clubwoman, and Charles Francis Adams, former Secretary of the Navy.

Babs' Cash Now U. S. Controlled

NEW YORK, May 14 (INS).—

One of the curious sidelights of the war today found the Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Resenlow virtually dependent on Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., for her spending money.

It all came about as a result of President Roosevelt's order directing the treasury to administer all Scandinavian wealth in the country when the Nazis invaded Norway and seized Denmark.

The Countess "Babs" is a Danish subject by marriage but her $40,000,000 fortune is in America. She may even have to obtain a license from the treasury to withdraw money from the bank. In addition, the German occupation of Denmark complicated her divorce from Count Haugwitz-Resenlow, the final papers not yet having been issued.

Follow These Rules In Family Contest

These are the rules governing the Typical American Family in Massachusetts Contest:

1—The Typical American Family Competition, conducted by the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Boston Evening American, in co-operation with the New York World's Fair of 1940, is open only to citizens of the United States residing in Massachusetts.

2—The name and address of each family, with the number of children, boys and girls, must be submitted on the official entry form, together with a letter of not more than 300 words describing the family and explaining why it should be selected as the Typical American Family in Massachusetts. No photographs will be returned.

MUST SEND PHOTO

3—Entries will NOT be judged by the literary style or excellence of the letters submitted, but strictly on the qualifications and characteristics of the family.

4—A recent photograph, or clear snapshot of the family must accompany the entry.

5—The entry of a candidate family may be submitted by a relative or friend, or by a member of the family.

6—Entries close on Saturday, June 15, at midnight. The completed form must be mailed or delivered to the Advertiser-American Typical American Family Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass., before that time.

7—The selection of the Typical Family will be made by a committee of distinguished Massachusetts men and women well qualified to establish the requirements of a Typical American Family, and the committee's decision will be final.

ALL EXPENSES PAID

8—The parents and two children of the Typical Family selected, the eldest child to be not over 18, will be transported from Boston to the New York World's Fair and back by automobile, with all meals and hotel expenses paid. They will be entertained at the Fair for one week, beginning July 22, without any cost whatever to themselves. The family, while at the Fair, will live for one week in a completely furnished house built inside the Fair Grounds in accordance with the standards set up for home construction by the Federal Housing Administration. The house accommodates four persons, and for this reason only four members of the Family selected may go to the Fair. The family will have complete freedom of action as to what they want to do and see. They will, in fact, live each day as they would during any normal holiday period.

9—It is understood that entrants give permission to publish photographs and stories of their family.

10—This competition is not open to employees of the Boston Sunday Advertiser-Boston Evening American, nor of other publications or advertising media.

House O. K.'s Pension For Veterans' Widows

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP).—

Legislation to pension dependent widows, children and parents of every deceased World War veteran, regardless of the cause of his death, was passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

Rep. Rankin (D.) of Mississippi, sponsor of the measure, and others contended that it would take care of the dependents of many veterans whose deaths resulted indirectly from their war service, while opponents maintained that it would reduce the funds available for the widows and orphans of men killed in action.

Sisters Agree To Return Home

Acceptance of a jail sentence here or return to Pennsylvania for violation of probation was the question which puzzled two sisters from Erie, Pa., today in municipal court.

The sisters, Ferrio, Violet, 17, and Jeannette, 19, finally agreed to let Judge Daniel J. Gillen return them voluntarily to Pennsylvania.

Their dilemma arose when Mrs. Roy Spencer, a probation officer from Erie, appeared in court to ask permission to take them back without legal papers.

When court attaches pointed out they could still be returned to Pennsylvania after serving a sentence here the sisters agreed to go with Mrs. Spencer.

Boston police took them into custody 10 days ago when they were found wandering about the city penniless. They admitted running away.

2 Greater Hub Boys Appointed To West Point

Two Greater Boston boys were notified today they had won presidential appointments to the U. S. Military Academy in a competition with several hundred other applicants throughout the United States.

The two are James H. Walker of Arlington and Alexander R. Bolling, Jr., of Waban. They have been ordered to report at West Point on July 1 by the War Department.

A. R. Bolling, Jr. J. H. Walker

Both Walker and Bolling failed to get congressional or senatorial appointments, and because their fathers are in military service they were authorized to enter the competition for presidential appointments.

The boys are sons of Maj. W. G. Walker and Maj. A. R. Bolling, attached to the staff of the commanding general, First Corps Area. Upon graduation from their local high schools both Walker and Bolling attended the West Point preparatory school, Washington, D. C.

Fingernail-Biting Socialite Divorced

He bit his fingernails, she said, and she tried to stop the habit. And so today, in Suffolk Probate Court, they were divorced.

Of course there were other things, asserted Mrs. Marie Barry Cook, Back Bay socialite of Commonwealth ave., in winning a divorce from Edward Denton Cook of Peach's Point, Marblehead.

There was a lavish wedding back on the night of Nov. 18, 1935, with many pre-nuptial parties having been held, and with wedding guests and attendants coming from as far away as Toronto and Philadelphia.

Then the bridegroom, member of the Tedesco Country Club, took his attractive brunette bride—who was graduated from the Katharine Gibbs School and attended Smith College—on a honeymoon to Bermuda.

Today, however, as she testified before Judge Frederick J. Dillon, such happiness is only in memories.

CITES VIOLENT TEMPER

Her husband, she said, she learned, had a violent temper, used profanity, and eventually it came to striking her and threatening to take her life and his own.

"I was in constant fear of him," she testified.

Finally she left him last December, she said, after they had quarreled on the way home from a card party which he had not wanted to leave. He leaped upon her in bed, she asserted, and began to choke her.

"My husband was in the habit of biting his fingernails," the socialite testified. "I did everything I could to stop him."

TELLS OF GUN THREAT

On another occasion, said Mrs. Cook, he left her and went back to Marblehead. She followed and found him drunk, she said, and with the help of a friend put him to bed. Then she went to sleep.

He awoke first and aroused her, according to the testimony.

"With his eyes bulging," said Mrs. Cook, "he started for a window and said he wanted to jump out. I stopped him."

Cook, she testified, kept a rifle and pistol in the house and at one time told her:

"I hate you so much I'd like to put a bullet through you."

There are no children.

12 Escape Injury In N. Y. Plane Mishap

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Nine passengers and a crew of three of an American Airlines transport plane escaped injury today when the undercarriage of the ship became separated from the fuselage during a landing at La Guardia field.

The plane was inbound from Chicago. Mayor La Guardia rushed to the field and ordered that reporters and photographers be denied admittance.

Divorce Plot Probed by Jury

Mrs. Katherine Goldberg, Revela matron, who charges her Brighton druggist husband conspired with another man to get evidence to divorce her, appeared before the Suffolk County grand jury today.

Mrs. Goldberg was the first witness in the case and the second was Inspector Benjamin Goodman of Boston police headquarters.

Both Hyman Goldberg and his former employee, Philip Woodman of Newton, the man with whom Goldberg is alleged to have conspired, were held in $1000 bail each for the grand jury April 29 in Brighton court.

Mrs. Goldberg had testified she was lured to an overnight cabin in Attleboro by Woodman, acting on orders of her husband, and that Woodman attempted to attack her just as her husband broke in on them with a photograph.

THREE WIN TOP NEWS TIP AWARDS

Men from Lynn, Boston and Hyde Park who respectively reported the suicide in Swampscott of a prominent Boston editor; the murder in California of a West End man and a girl, and a Hyde Park warehouse fire, won top prizes of $3 each in the Boston Record-Boston American-Boston Advertiser Weekly News Tip Contest.

The suicide was all the more dramatic when it was learned that a young girl pleaded with the editor to change his mind before he leaped into the path of an oncoming train. The Boston tipster furnished these papers with a complete background and pictures of the murder victims, while the Hyde Park man supplemented his tip with graphic pictures of the fire.

Awards of $2 each were given to a South Sudbury man for reporting the death of two brothers when a train struck a truck at a South Sudbury grade crossing; an Ailston man for phoning the unusual story that a husband and wife drove a trailer without registration plates from Florida to Massachusetts before they were finally stopped in Waltham, and a Stoughton man for the tip that a police officer prosecuting a traffic case was jailed for contempt.

Awards of $1 each go to Charlestown man for the holdup of a Blue Hill ave. package store; a Somerville woman for the rescue of a woman after she dove into the Washington street elevated pit; a Weston man for a school fire in which students aided firemen in battling the blaze; a Boston man for reporting that a fireman fell from an engine on his way to a fire; a Dorchester man for the story on a lost boy who was found in a Somerville theater; an Everett man for the death by a train of a 1-year-old Everett boy.

Other $1 awards go to an Auburndale man for reporting the presence of a German Swastika flying from a flagpole in front of an Auburndale school; a South Boston man for the recovery of the body of a youthful drowning victim on the sands at Carson Beach, a Lexington woman for a $6000 Tyngsboro chicken farm fire, and a Roxbury man for the tip that a man fell from a window in Roxbury.

Widow Identifies Body in Harbor

A body discovered by police on the shore of Apple Island in Boston Harbor was identified today as that of Hyman Pruzon, 62, of Drummond rd., Dorchester, a house painter who had been missing since December.

Pruzon's widow, Mrs. Ida Pruzon, made the identification through articles of clothing and papers found on the dead's man's person. Cause of death was not immediately determined.

Governor Says U.S. Must Defend Youth

HOLYOKE, May 14 (AP)—Governor Saltonstall said today that in line with the nation's policy of building youth for the future its present duty is "to preserve the future for youth."

"In many other countries a life under arms or in constant fear of death is the best that youth can look forward to," he asserted in a prepared address before the State convention of the Knights of Columbus.

"In this nation our boys and girls have much more to hope for. Yet all too many of them are discouraged in this outlook. We devote much attention to building youth for the future. It is our present duty to preserve the future for youth.

"We must waste no time in providing the army with modern equipment in such quantities as it needs," he continued. "Let us not hesitate in supplying the navy with the biggest feasible fleet; and both branches with tremendous air force. Let us develop the best officers and men, with plenty of funds to support them.

DICTATORS FEAR U. S.

"We still need something more—something even more powerful to support any armament, no matter how great; or fighters, no matter how brave. We need a strong united nation." Urging this unity, the governor said it was obvious that a disunited and discontented nation was "ripe for picking by today's war lords."

"To check such invasions there are even more impregnable forces than aircraft or battleships," he said. "They are natural forces in which our nation is peculiarly rich: an unquenchable love of truth and freedom; an unbreakable will never to quit in the face of adversity."

"Democracy may not provide the most efficient government, but it produces something which regimented governments cannot create: a boundless will and force that can overcome terrific obstacles. Dictators know and fear this true power of ours as the greatest barrier to their ambitions."

WILL ELECT TODAY

In a pre-convention statement, Deputy John H. Spillane predicted the meeting would adopt "a very strong" resolution criticizing Harvard for its appointment of Bertrand Russell as an instructor. He also forecast establishment of a $150,000 fund to provide approximately 50 scholarships in Catholic colleges for Massachusetts men and women.

The election of officers was scheduled for late in the day, with Leo M. Harlow of North Easton and Walter G. Powers of Taunton as candidates for State deputy.

Emma Goldman Is Dead at 70

TORONTO, May 14 (AP)—Emma Goldman, internationally known Anarchist, died early today at her home here after an illness of several months.

Miss Goldman, who would have been 71 years next June 27, suffered a stroke last February and spent several months in a hospital. Present at the time of death were a brother, Dr. Maurice Goldman, and a sister, Mrs. Stella Ballantine, both of New York. Another sister, Mrs. Lena Cummings of Rochester, N. Y., also survives.

Miss Goldman was born in Kovno, Russia (now Lithuania's capital), June 27, 1869, and gained fame both in Europe and America as an advocate of revolutionary change. She came to America at the age of 13.

Armed Trio Foiled In Roxbury Holdup

Three armed men today held up Mrs. Harry Merrill, 38, wife of a Roxbury Crossing horse trainer, but obtained nothing for their efforts.

Mrs. Merrill said the men accosted her in the hallway of her Marble st. home. After they had grabbed her purse, which contained $20 money, the bandits fled.

Hopson Enters Not Guilty Plea

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Howard C. Hopson, founder of the $1,300,000,000 Associated Gas and Electric system, and three associates pleaded innocent in federal court today to a 19-count indictment charging them with conspiracy and defrauding investors of more than $20,000,000.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard fixed bail at $5000 each, and tentatively set Sept. 3 for trial. Arraigned with Hopson were Frederick S. Burroughs, former vice-president, and Charles M. Travis and Garrett A. Brownback, former attorneys for the system.

Clubwomen Warned Of U. S. Dictator Peril

If democracy in America is to be spared the terrible fate now confronting Europe at the hands of ruthless dictators, American women must rise up and give battle. No longer can they afford to be apathetic.

This was the warning given by Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, first vice-president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, before 1000 members of the Massachusetts Federation, continuing today their 48th annual sessions at the New Ocean House in Swampscott.

Departing from the usual comforting speeches of Federation leaders, the militant Baltimore clubwoman declared that the Fifth Column of the dictatorships already had made devastating advances in the United States.

"Do not believe it cannot happen here," she challenged. "I have seen little children in uniform giving a foreign salute. I have heard intelligent people say that our unemployment problem would be solved if we had a dictator."

At the opening meeting, Mrs. David A. Westcott of Boston was elected president of the Massachusetts federation for the coming year.

Other officers elected are Mrs. Herbert S. French of Braintree; Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon of Boston; Mrs. Edward T. Broadhurst of Springfield; and Mrs. Edward Troland of Malden, vice-presidents; Mrs. W. O. B. Little of Boston, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Vernon Innott of Worcester, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Schuyler W. VanNess of Framingham, clerk; and Mrs. Raymond Merrill of Winchester, treasurer.

District directors elected are: Mrs. Harry M. Herman of East Braintree, second district; Mrs. F. P. Osgood of Boston, fourth; Mrs. Robert M. Hill of Milton, fifth; Mrs. J. B. Bruce of Boston, sixth; Mrs. Fred W. Fisher of Boston, seventh; Mrs. James Dunlop of Newton, 12; Mrs. Walter E. Woodruff of Fitchburg, 33th; and Mrs. Guy W. Downer of Shelburne Falls, 35th.

DENIED—Demurrer to the divorce action of her husband, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., today had been denied Mrs. Helen Varner Vanderbilt of Carson City, Nev., judge. He gave her 20 days in which to file an answer to her husband's complaint, which charges three years of separation.

$1150 Payroll Bandits Hunted

Detailed descriptions of three youthful gunmen who threatened two girl clerks and staged a $1150 payroll holdup in South Boston were given Boston detectives today as they pressed a search for the trio.

So smoothly was the robbery carried out that 30 employees of the Perkit Folding Paper Box Co., on Wormwood st., South Boston, did not realize what was happening in their factory.

Miss Madeline Perkit, 28, of Floyd st., Dorchester, sister of Charles Perkit, owner of the company, and Miss Margaret McDade, 25, of Crescent st., Waltham, were alone in the office when the three bandits entered.

Income Tax Our Future

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Hitler says he'll fix Europe for the next thousand years. Maybe this whole thing was started by Grover Whalen's time capsule.

It's not dangerous for anybody to look that far ahead. What makes it hazardous is that Adolf is already sticking his hand out for a left turn.

We've got a different system about fixing dates in America. The reason we don't plan ahead is because of the income tax.

The income tax concentrates on the years gone by. It makes us worry backwards and not forwards.

The two men were unopposed in Presidential primary balloting. The Democratic delegation, with 32 votes, was pledged nominally to National Committeeman Charles Sawyer as a "favorite son," but the party's state organization has bound it to support the President if he runs again.

The Ohio Republican delegation is the first one, aside from two district delegates in North Carolina, to be chosen formally for Taft.

The Ohio Senator claims unopposed support in several states, however, and his managers hoped that at least part of the unpledged West Virginia delegation being elected in a primary today would back him.

West Virginia Democrats also were picking an unopposed 16-vote delegation, while in Connecticut a Republican convention was called together to select 15 delegates.

NORTH DAKOTA TO FDR
North Dakota's eight "national convention votes" went to Mr. Roosevelt in a Democratic state convention yesterday.

At the same time Wyoming Democrats instructed their six-vote delegation to cast its first presidential ballot for Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of that state, but thereafter it would be free to support Mrs. Roosevelt if he seeks a third term.

Hard fought contests for senatorial and gubernatorial nominations were involved in the Ohio and West Virginia primaries. Governor John W. Bricker (R.) of Ohio was unopposed for renomination, but seven Democrats were battling to oppose him in November. In the field were two former governors, Martin L. Davey and George White.

Senator Vic Donahey (D.) of Ohio, was not a candidate for another term. Seeking the Republican nomination were Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, Rep. Dudley White, and Charles Wharton, a Kenton merchant.

In the Democratic race were former Rep. John McSweney and Herbert S. Bigelow, sponsor of the old age pension plan defeated in Ohio last year.

SEN. HOLT OPPOSED

A factional Democratic struggle in West Virginia included the unusual situation of a Senator, M. M. Neely, trying for the nomination for governor.

He had CIO backing against State Chairman R. Carl Andrews, candidate of Governor Homer A. Holt and the "State House" forces. A third candidate was R. Hugh Jarvis, Morgantown coal operator.

Senator Rush D. Holt, youngest senator ever to take his seat, was up for renomination against Judge Harley Kilgore, former Governor H. G. Kump and State Senator J. Buht Shahan. Neely campaigned for Kilgore, while Kump was the "State House" candidate.

The Republican senatorial contest was fought between former Rep. Carl Buchanan, former Governor E. F. Morgan, Circuit Judge Decatur Rodgers and State Senator Thomas B. Sweeney.

Seeking the Republican nomination for governor were Mayor D. E. Dawson of Charleston, Circuit Judge Lewis H. Miller and State Senator D. B. Ealy.

10 MONSTER DRIVE PUTS NAZIS IN FRANCE

EVENING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, MAY 14, 1940

hours that the Polish campaign now looks like a "weak prelude."

They asserted the Allied general staff had lost its head completely. German parachutists were reported dumped from the sky into Brussels. A French news agency (Havas) dispatch said they were pounced on by the inhabitants as fast as they touched ground and one was lynched after he tried to use his firearms.

The French acknowledged that the Germans reached Sedan in a push which took them to the Meuse river on an 80-mile front. The long-awaited battle of the west was on in full fury along this prepared line of resistance.

THREE GERMAN GOALS

It appeared that Germany might have any or all three of these objectives:

- 1—To drive through the low countries and establish Nazi bases on the North sea within short striking distance of England.
- 2—To attack in frontally the northern Maginot line below Belgium, where the French defenses are not as long-established as along the German frontier.

3—To flank the Maginot line at its northern end.

One thing both the Allies and the Germans agreed on: That the current action was the start of a great, decisive encounter between the full forces of the opposing armies on which may pivot the outcome of the war.

The Netherlands government and queen have fled to England, leaving Gen. Winkelman in sole command. England, host to the Dutch royal family and government, received many refugees streaming out of their Netherlands homeland.

In Rome and other Italian cities the flame of anti-Allied feeling blazed ever higher. British consuls in Italy were reported advising British citizens to leave the country.

ITALIANS BURN FLAGS

Shouting students burned a British and French flag on a "coffin" before the British embassy in Rome and had to be restrained by armed troops. Premier Mussolini drove by the demonstrators' bonfire and was wildly cheered.

A repercussion of the German invasion of The Netherlands was a Japanese protest against reported anti-Japanese demonstrations at Batavia, in the Dutch East Indies.

Little Switzerland was preparing for the worst—the worst being a probable Nazi smash through that country to flank the southern end of the Maginot line and create a diversion which would force the French to rush troops away from the Belgian front. The entrance of Italy at this juncture was predicted by many neutral observers.

Fate of the ex-Kaiser was in doubt. It was said Hitler had sent some of his bodyguard to protect Wilhelm, whose refuge at Doorn, Holland, was seemingly in control of the Nazis.

BLITZKRIEG BOUND—Passed by the German censor, photo shows detachment of Nazi troops aboard transport plane that ferried them to Norway. These men, however, are not parachute troops. Today, in Belgium and Holland, this same method is employed . . . along with the transporting of parachute troops.

Dutch Government Rules From London

By CHARLES A. SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 14 (INS)—With Queen Wilhelmina and other members of the Dutch royal family safe in London, the Netherlands government moved quickly today to establish its seat in the British capital as warfare spread over Holland.

Premier Dirk Jan De Geer and all other members of the Dutch government not already in London arrived at the British capital this morning.

The greatest secrecy was observed when the Dutch ministers arrived at St. Pancras Station. Premier De Geer and 10 of his colleagues crossed from Holland aboard a British warship.

REFUGEES ARRIVE

Immediately after their arrival the Dutch legation announced:

"We hope with the help of the Allies to be able to continue the fight, and that is absolutely our intention."

The legation also asserted that Dutch forces captured a German general in whose possession was found a list of prominent Dutch persons "who are destined for immediate shooting."

Names of these asserted "fifth columnists" were not disclosed. Early today a trainload of refugees arrived from Holland, many of them women and children who crossed the North Sea aboard freighters, sleeping on straw in the holds.

All were exhausted. Babies slept in blankets and other children were nearly unconscious from fatigue. The refugees were conveyed to buses which took them to their destinations. Most of the refugees had abandoned all their possessions in Holland.

FLED AGAINST WILL

The Dutch legation issued a statement reiterating that the Queen and members of the Dutch cabinet came to England "much against their will" and only when it was found that the government could not be directed properly from The Hague.

The statement added that Prince Bernhard, husband of Crown Princess Juliana, is determined to return and join the fight against the invaders. Bernhard and Juliana arrived with their two children yesterday.

According to the legation statement, "fifth columnists" and German parachute troops still form the greatest problem facing Holland.

Even soldiers at the front, the legation said, do not know whether the next man is a friend or foe. Naval, military and air force attaches accompanied the Dutch government to London. Several hundred other Dutch civilian refugees arrived on the same train.

Meanwhile, reports the Belgian government also will come to London were declared untrue by well-informed quarters.

Italian Student Mob Burns Allied Flags

ROME, May 14 (AP)—Shouting students burned a British and a French flag on a simulated coffin before the British embassy today in a new outburst of anti-Allied demonstrations.

SWISS SET FOR CHUTE INVASION

BERNE, Switzerland, May 14 (1N4)—Swiss authorities today began recruiting bands of volunteers to protect isolated villages and communities from possible invasion by parachute troops.

Men retired from the Swiss militia who still possess their own guns will be issued ammunition. Simultaneously, Switzerland tightened its restrictions on activities of foreigners.

The military situation along the Swiss border was quiet today except for airplane flights along the Rhine.

26 Nazi Ships Seized, 5 Sunk

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—A British naval source said today 19 German merchant ships were seized by Netherlands authorities in the Dutch East Indies and seven in the Dutch West Indies.

This source said five other German ships were mined and sunk by the Norwegians or scuttled or set afire by their crews between May 6 and May 11.

He placed the total tonnage lost to the enemy between those dates at 171,049.

The British source said each of the 31 ships the Germans had lost during this period was of less than 10,000 tons.

The Nordnorge, a Norwegian ship of 1991 tons used as a troop transport by the Germans, was reported sunk by a mine off Norway.

Only one British ship of about 600 tons was sunk by the enemy in the week ended May 5, he said, while there were no other Allied or neutral losses in the same period.

Leopold Thanks Pope For Prayer

BRUSSELS, May 14 (AP)—The Brussels radio announced today that King Leopold III had replied to a message of sympathy from Pope Pius XII in a telegram saying:

"I have been deeply moved by the telegram which Your Holiness has been gracious enough to send me after the brutal aggression of which my country has become a victim.

"I express to you my own and the Belgian people's profound gratitude."

Earlier they had demonstrated at the French embassy and then marched across town to Porta Pia, famous gate to the Roman wall adjacent to the embassy.

Armed troops stood guard before a huge throng in front of the French embassy after about 5000 others had massed under Premier Mussolini's balcony and clamored in vain for a speech.

A column of several thousand schoolboys, ranging in age from 12 years up, marched to the French embassy through congested streets.

They carried a coffin wrapped in the French flag with an umbrella on top, a caricature of France labelled "Poor Chamberlain's Flash-woman" and another of England with the title "Her Boy Friend."

"DOWN WITH FRANCE!"

Besides Italian flags, the students had one big swastika banner and another with the legend, "Down with the French Republic."

Most of the boys carried clubs, but apparently only for appearance. There was no effort to wield them. Interspersed in the crowd were several hundred school girls, striving to keep up under the burden of their schoolbags and books.

Several thousand students were halted by a barrier of armed troops at the British embassy, as they had been before at the French embassy.

Massing a short distance away, however, they set fire to the "coffin" and threw their clubs on it to make a bonfire.

Before they disbanded, a Fascist official in blackshirt uniform congratulated them on a "magnificent demonstration," told them their cry was "a war cry."

He declared France and Britain must understand that Italy would never remain a prisoner in the Mediterranean.

CHIEFS FOR HITLER

Mussolini drove by the bonfire on his way home to lunch and was loudly cheered.

In Milan, approximately 5000 students paraded for more than an hour, cheering Mussolini and Hitler on shouting:

"Down with England!"
"Down with France!"

The Milanese demonstration attempted to reach the French and British consulates, but were turned back by strong infantry detachments.

Members of the British embassy staff looked on from upper floor windows while the demonstrators, held back by a cordon of steel-helmeted troops, shouted and sang patriotic songs for 10 minutes.

Despite these manifestations of anti-British feeling, the consulate took no steps to urge British subjects to leave Italy, but Britons who asked advice were told it might be "wise" to leave.

"PIRACY" AGAINST ITALY

Renewed demonstrations were also reported in Naples, Syracuse and other cities.

The official Stefani News Agency reported: "The strongest and deepest indignation over the piracy of the western powers, to the harm of Italy, continues throughout Italy."

Mussolini was twice called to the balcony to acknowledge cheers of the demonstrators.

Meanwhile the French government was reported in political circles to have sent a formal note to Italy. The contents were not disclosed.

Belgians Lynch Nazi Parachute Soldiers

BRUSSELS, May 11 (1NS)—Large reinforcements of British and French troops, with artillery, tanks and automatic weapons, have arrived in Belgium in the last 48 hours and taken up strong positions beside Belgian defenders, it was reported today.

This new help arrived at a moment when the hard-pressed Belgians were falling back to prepared positions. While falling back, Belgian and French units carried out spirited counter-attacks against the German juggernaut.

Meanwhile, Belgian civilians loosened their hatred of the Nazis in vaders against German parachutists, literally tearing one limb from limb when he landed in a suburb of Brussels. At other points in this vicinity parachutists were lynched by crowds.

3000 TANKS BATTLE

The Brussels radio, quoting a high command communique, stated:

"Numerous local engagements are proceeding at different points. Our troops are energetically resisting enemy pressure.

"During the night advance elements of our troops were compelled to retire."

The fighting developed into a crucial struggle for the eastern approaches to Brussels and took the form for history's greatest battle of tanks.

Nearly 3000 of these mechanical monsters, spitting shells and machine gun bullets, were locked in a combat of blood and iron in the Saint-Trois area below Hasselt as the Germans battered their way in the direction of the Belgian capital.

The Closest That Jiggs Missed

Over Billion Urged For Army, Weapons

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The cost of bringing the United States army to full peace time strength and equipping it with modern weapons was estimated at $1,125,000,000 today by Rep. Smith (D.) of Connecticut.

This amount, Smith said in an interview, should be appropriated by Congress before adjournment. A member of the House military affairs committee, he added that these funds were necessary "over and above" the army's regular appropriations to give the nation "adequate defense."

ARMY OF MILLION

Smith's program would enable the United States to put 1,000,000 men in the field for defense purposes.

"The cessation of European hostilities would by no means remove any threat to the United States," Smith remarked. "Demobilization of any victorious army there is unlikely even if a quick victory is won, because the victor could not afford to return its soldiers to unemployment."

He estimated the army needed $225,000,000 to increase training airplane pilots, to provide 63 additional mobile anti-aircraft units and to fill the entire nine infantry divisions called for to full peace-time strength.

HOGE INDUSTRIAL SUM

Of this amount at least $375,000,000 was necessary, he said, to equip the existing regular army and National Guard and $500,000,000 for coast defense. An additional $500,000,000 was needed, Smith said, for industrial preparedness.

Both government and private ammunition plants should be expanded under the industrial program, Smith said, as well as government arsenals for the manufacture of guns.

He also approved a proposal by Senator Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts for using relief labor in constructing plant additions.

Smith explained he believed taxes should be raised to meet increased expenditures for national defense.

Allies Land Fresh Troops in Norway

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Reuters (British news agency) today quoted the Norwegian high command as saying that additional Allied troops had been landed under the guns of warships at Bjelkvik, Norway, south of the German-held Arctic port of Narvik.

The troops were said to be marching northward to meet a combined Allied-Norwegian force.

ALLIES HALT BIG RETREAT

Germans have bucked a stonewall of French mobile units.

French military sources declared the clash of armored cars was a "victory for French material." They described German losses as "enormous."

In Holland, a military spokesman said the "situation appears grave for the Dutch army."

German forces were moving toward Rotterdam along both banks of the Rhine.

(The German high command said Nazi forces in central Holland had penetrated the Dutch Grebbe water defense system and were advancing toward Utrecht. Vanguards, it said, also were reaching Rotterdam.)

French military sources admitted neither the possibility of contact between German advance guards with parachute detachments in Rotterdam nor of "imminent attack" on the city "could be rejected."

3 THRUSTS AT MAGINOT

Dutch resistance, however, was said to be continuing fiercely on the right-angle line formed by Amsterdam, Utrecht and The Hague.

Along the French Maginot front, three German attacks drew protective fire from French outpost units.

Two of them, on the plateau east of Eindhoven, halted off. The third, east of Wisseburg at the eastern tip of the northern French flank, was described as a "local action" without results.

A French spokesman said the air fighting was "generally favorable to the Allies."

Allied bombers caused heavy damage to German communications between the Rhine and the Belgian-Dutch frontier. Fighters strafed German columns crossing the Rhine.

NAZIS KILL 20 GERMANS

Dispatches from Brussels said a train of 650 German prisoners arriving at the Tournai railway station was machine-gunned by German airplanes and 20 were killed.

Defense Minister Daladier has returned to Paris from an inspection of Allied positions in Belgium.

Military advisers indicate the Allies plan to make their stand along the Meuse.

The Germans were reported to have concentrated a massive attack.

tack, supported by tanks and airplanes in the Sedan sector.

Equally heavy fighting was reported by the French at the Belgian town of Dinan, 15 miles south of Namur on the Meuse. Dinant likewise was abandoned by civilians.

The French communiqué said the Nazi attack was increasing everywhere, and that the Germans had used two full divisions in their drive to the Meuse. Sedan is located in the northern extension of the Maginot line.

The French reported repulse of a German assault at Longwy—inside the French frontier near the junction of the Belgian and Luxembourg borders—after bitter street fighting. The French still are holding the town, a spokesman said.

Northwest of Liege a great battle between mechanized units was reported continuing near Tirmont.

(In London it was admitted by a British military source that the forts and city of Liege were isolated by the fast slashing German attack.)

Earlier the French had reported they had defeated the Germans in a great battle of mechanized forces in the Belgian Ardennes and estimated they had shot down 400 German planes in the last three and a half days of fighting.

The German campaign, military sources said, combined terrific air attacks on both the front lines and Allied troop concentrations at the rear, direct thrusts from tanks and motorized divisions and heavy artillery barrages.

The Belgian command opened its lines after the first shock to allow passage of French troops into the battle zone where the fighting was the heaviest.

French tanks moved against the German mechanized forces while "armored cavalry" deployed on the flanks.

French and British pilots attacked German railway yards and airports. German pilots bombed French and Belgian airfields while Nazi paratroopers, instructed to spread havoc behind the lines, were dropped in increasing numbers.

TITANIC TANK BATTLE

"Mere preliminaries," is the way a French spokesman described yesterday's air battles, infantry drives and the gigantic mechanized engagement.

The "real" struggle for possession of the Netherlands and Belgium, he said, will come on the new Allied line.

Military commentators said the Ardennes fight yesterday was the first in history in which two such fleets of "land battleships" had matched tactics and guns.

Sketchy dispatches told how the battle between 1500 and 2000 tanks was fought in bright sunlight on a flat terrain between Tirmont and Tongres where the machines were able to maneuver freely.

The French corps, en route to the battle line since the invasion Friday, rushed into engagement at full speed, it was said.

The dust raised by the encounter could be seen from afar. The roar of the tanks' guns could be heard for miles.

A French staff officer said a battle between "the full weight of the Allied mechanized army and the full weight of German armored divisions may come now within a few days." Two French divisions, reinforced by some reconnaissance elements, were reported to have been pitted against two German divisions in the Ardennes battle.

The French reported Nazi losses in men and material there were heavy.

vanced in some spots at a rate of 40 to 60 miles a day despite solid Belgian resistance backed up now by increasing French strength.

SWEEP INTO SEDAN

The crowding of the Meuse carried the Germans into the region of Sedan, where Emperor Napoleon III was captured in 1870 in a climax of the Franco-Prussian war and which was held by Kaiser Wilhelm's army from 1914 to the closing days of the World War.

As regards Holland, the biggest event strategically, according to DNB, is the advance from the south into the center defense system—the so-called "fortress of Holland" around Rotterdam.

Such Dutch detachments as realize that the French and English are unable to reach them on time are weakening in their defense, DNB asserted, while those which are isolated continue to fight bitterly.

Quick motorized German units which established contact with units landed from the air about Rotterdam have been followed by German infantry forces, widening the breach between Belgium and Holland and cutting off their communications.

French claims of armored car superiority were flatly denied here. It was stated the French were repulsed with heavy losses.

DNB boasts that the enemy air forces have been so badly demolished that along the entire front from the Polish date forest via Luxembourg and Belgium to Holland, no indications are discernible of an enemy air initiative.

TERRIFIC AIR ATTACK

Today's communiqué added: "Under the protection of continuously attack German fighting planes, Stukas (dive bombers) and destroyer-plane units and under their crushing efforts we succeeded in crossing the Meuse also on French soil." "South of Saarbrücken, Otto Schulz, lieutenant of one infantry regiment, distinguished himself by special bravery."

Paris Menaced by Nazi Victory In Fierce Battle Around Sedan

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Critical for the Allies is word that the Germans, developing increased volume in their fierce attack, have swept through the heart of the Belgian defense system and across the French frontier to the historic city of Sedan.

This town lies 10 miles within what is known as the "Little Maginot Line," which is the advance defense of the Maginot Line proper that runs along the Franco-Belgian border to the sea.

What all the belligerent capitals agree will be one of the greatest battles of history cannot be long delayed in view of this development.

The Allies will rally every ounce of strength for a stand along the Sedan front, and the Germans are reported to be making a massive drive here, supported by tanks and airplanes.

PARIS IS THREATENED

A break through here would establish a grave threat to Paris itself, as well as being another battle of the Marne developing.

It was at Sedan that the Prussians in 1870 defeated the vast forces of Marshal MacMahon and compelled a surrender. Paris was taken and the war ended.

The French report fierce fighting along the route of the German advance from Namur southward through Dinant to Sedan. This indicates that while the Nazis have been able to break through, they haven't routed the allied defenses.

The fact that the Hitlerian forces have made this abrupt thrust to the south tends to substantiate the general belief that this is indeed Hitler's great effort to smash the Allies and win the war in a lightning attack.

If the Germans break through the Maginot line in the Sedan sector, they will have the entire British expeditionary force, in addition to French and Belgian armies, on their right, with the French holding on their left.

DRIVE TOWARD COAST

The Nazi effort would be to roll these armies back and sweep on to Paris, and ultimately through to the coast.

One of the gravest threats against the Allies and especially against England, as it appeared from developments this morning, was the rapid advance of the Germans through southern Holland to the coast. Most of the northern two-thirds of the country already was in German hands.

Capture of this southern strip along the Belgian-Dutch border would effectively sever connections between the two countries and isolate Holland from Allied air, excepting what could be rendered by sea or by air.

Thus Herr Hitler would seem to be bringing to fruition one of his chief ambitions in his invasion of the low countries—the occupation of the Dutch coast so that he could get at England with his air force.

It is even conceivable that the quick German thrust towards Sedan is for the purpose of diverting Allied support from the Dutch theater so that the German conquest there may be completed quickly. That would be logical even if Holland is Hitler's main objective.

However, it must be admitted that the assault looks much bigger than this limited objective. Naturally the course of the conflict will be determined by circumstances. The Germans are prime opportunists and will thrust or withdraw as conditions warrant.

ITALY WORRIES ALLIES

If the German purpose was indeed to crash the Allied front at the Belgian border, they might have taken any one of several other routes which have been well worn by other armies.

It may easily be that the drive to Sedan did indeed represent a quick shift in strategy due to some development which isn't apparent to the outside world.

Presumably pursuit of the drive in this direction will depend on the success attending the initial stages of the big battle which undoubtedly is now beginning.

The position of Italy remains one of anxiety for the Allies. Mussolini still conceals his intentions, although the anti-allied campaign continues apace.

One thing is obvious: If Duce is doing—he is supporting Hitler by creating this anti-allied diversion in order to hold Anglo-French forces at attention in the Mediterranean.

Even if the Italian leader goes no further, he is rendering his partner a great service as it is.

Kaiser's Fate Unknown; Hitler Guards Seek Him

BERLIN, May 14 (AP)—No definite information was available here concerning the whereabouts of former Kaiser Wilhelm, who has been exiled in Holland since the end of the World War.

Adolf Hitler has made no statement of his attitude toward the Kaiser. The view of the foreign office appeared to be that the former monarch must express some wish regarding his future before any pronouncement is made here.

There were reports, however, that members of Hitler's personal bodyguard, the so-called "Leibstandarte" were on their way to Wilhelm's refuge at Doorn.

HOLLAND ADMITS TROOPS FALL BACK

AMSTERDAM, May 14 (AP)—The Dutch field army defending western Holland has fallen back before the German attack to their strong, main water defense line in Utrecht Province, the high command announced today.

The communique was issued by Gen. Henri Gerard Winkelman, commander-in-chief of Holland's land and sea forces and the highest representative in Holland of the Dutch government, which now is in England.

He announced that German forces in control of northeastern provinces had failed in an attempt to capture the vital 16-mile dike separating the IJssel Meer (Zander Zee) from the North Sea.

The commander-in-chief said the government left Holland in view of its duties to the neutral kingdom, including the Dutch overseas possessions, and could carry on as well in London as in The Hague.

The communique summed up the military situation as follows: "In northern provinces the enemy has established himself. An attempt to force the IJsselmeer dike has failed up to now."

"The northern part of Rotterdam is firmly in our hands. The field army retreated last night and now holds our well-known new Dutch waterline."

"The position of Den Helder (North Sea naval base) is intact."

"The situation in Brabant is uncertain."

"The province of Zeeland is firmly in our hands."

"Our air defense remains, notwithstanding heavy losses, very active."

"In London, authorities attached to The Netherlands legation and their had not been a single instance of failure in The Netherlands' inundation defenses.

"The only trouble we experienced," said one official, "was the parachute troops."

Asked if the Huisman Zander Zee dam would be blown up if necessary, he said:

"If it is necessary for the defense of the country, you may say it definitely will be blown up."

Joan Bennett, Raft Starred

Joan Bennett and George Raft, co-stars of United Artists' first-rank release, "The House Across the Bay," opening on Loew's State and Orpheum screens Thursday, didn't plan acting careers.

At 13, Miss Bennett wanted to become an interior decorator or a writer of either books or songs. At St. Margaret's Boarding School, Waterbury, Conn., she was chosen to write a revue for the annual sophomore spring show. When she wrote the revue, wrote a song for it, produced the show, sang the songs and played the lead in the production, she temporarily lost interest in interior decoration.

Subsequently, she started as an extra and fought her way to film stardom.

Raft had not the slightest desire to be a film actor. He started life as a boxer, became a dancer and soon was one of the most popular artists of his line in the world. James Cagney finally persuaded him to enter pictures and Raft became an overnight hit in one of his first film appearances.

Nor did the other three featured performers in the picture appear slated for screen success. They are Walter Pidgeon, who made four different starts on a screen career and three times returned to the stage; Gladys George, whose hard-boiled screen portraits are masterpieces and who is a born lady; daughter of the late Sir Arthur Evans, who played in the biggest hit and one of the quickest flops on Broadway.

For your information the hit was "One Sunday Afternoon," which ran 43 weeks but did little to advance Nolan's career. The flop was "Ragged Army," which lasted two performances.

On the same bill will be "Over the Moon," Robert E. Sherwood's new comedy starring Merle Oberon with Rex Harrison.

NAZIS PERFECT TECHNIQUE OF

New War Weapon Effective

By PAUL WHELTON

Devised and developed by Soviet Russia, but perfected by Nazi Germany, the raining of parachute troops from the skies, scoffed at as recently as Finland's invasion, has become a major factor in the war during the last few days.

In the Low Countries—Belgium and The Netherlands—the parachute troops have brought the war practically to every doorstep, with the distance from home to the front line no longer a factor of safety.

The assault by parachute troops has enabled the seizure and at least temporary disruption of communications within these small nations and obviously has caused shock and surprise to the defenders.

Where Russia and her legions of parachute troops—men of the suicide squads—failed miserably in Finland, Germany and her 'chuters have apparently had signal success in their drives into Belgium and Holland.

And so great has been the reaction in America that already a flood of inquiries are being received in Washington as to whether plans have been made by the War Department to deal with such tactics should they be used against the United States.

While a War Department spokesman in Washington replied that "general plans" had already been worked out, an Army representative in the Boston area voiced the opinion that any such "general plans" were without benefit of full information regarding the new Nazi method of parachute attack.

IMPROVE PLAN

For while Russia failed in her technique of dropping 'chute troops from altitudes of 1000 feet or more, it has been learned that Germany's perfection of the strategy and her devising of a new, mystery type parachute allow the dropping of troops from as low as 100 feet.

Where the Russians, swaying like pendulums beneath the shrouds of their 'chutes as they drifted slowly to earth from the greater altitudes, made excellent targets for machine gunners and rifleman on the ground, and could be seen for miles, the lower-jumping Nazi troops are exposed to fire for only brief periods, if at all.

The element of surprise is a huge factor in the Nazi method, the troops land in a concentrated area and are quickly formed on the ground, something which cannot be attained when height and drift militate against the jumpers.

It would be suicide for a soldier to leap from a plane at 100 feet, or 200 feet, or 300 feet, using the ordinary parachute, but Nazi Germany has perfected a new type of 'chute, with apparently a lightning-opening factor.

MAY COST $150

What the cost of dropping these troops in the new parachutes may be cannot be estimated without the knowledge of how many troops have been dropped and the cost of the apparatus.

Some idea may be gained, however, when it is known that the parachute in use by the United States forces at present represents an average cost of approximately $150 and that Russia has dropped as many as 1000 soldiers at a time.

There is little question, too, that Germany's "Fifth Column," Germans who long have lived in the Low Countries, have aided in the success of the parachute troops.

INTERNS FOES

The Nazis' use of 'chute troops in The Netherlands and Belgium, and earlier in Norway, gave sudden rise to the Germans within those countries to help the Nazi soldiers when they landed in troop planes or by parachute.

According to despatches, there was an uncanny timing and co-ordination of these enemies within.

As a result of the successes across the thin strip of water, alarmed England, guarding against a similar Nazi invasion from the air, has begun internment all adult male Germans and Austrians in east and south-east Britain.

In a significant paragraph concerning this "Fifth Column," the British order of internment states:

"In the past two years thousands of refugees have been applying for exit visas from Germany to enter this country. Only German officials could grant those exit permits, so that they had a perfect opportunity to send their agents here under the guise of refugees."

Varied and many may be the objective of parachute troops. The flank attack, or the "double envelopment," has long been the favorite German tactic.

Planes have now enabled the Germans to attempt the so-called "vertical envelopment" by means of their parachute troops.

The Germans, where the front is continuous and no flank exists, endeavor to make flanks by a break-through, and then enlarging the gap thus made. Now with parachute troops and their "vertical envelopment" — action against the enemy's rear areas and flanks — the Nazis have made the flank attack a perpetual one.

SIMPLE BUT DEADLY

Only time will tell if the Allies will be able to devise a defense against the parachuters, as they devised a defense against magnetic mines a few months ago in the seas.

Simple but deadly is the technique of assault by parachute troops. If the country is thickly populated and firmly held by the enemy, as were the Low Countries, the troop transport planes are preceded by bombers that bomb and strafe the point of landing thoroughly, killing or maiming to cover the ground defenders.

The parachute troops then jump at low altitudes, while command planes above them cover their descent, keeping machine-guns and riflemen on the ground well occupied.

Usually first dropped in small units — perhaps a platoon at a time — the parachute troops usually wear special uniforms, sometimes the uniforms of the enemy, and are heavily armed with automatic weapons, such as light machine guns, semi-automatic rifles, automatic pistols, grenades and even light trench mortars.

Each man is trained to unhook his parachute harness quickly upon landing and to seek cover and beat down enemy resistance. The enemy, however, is usually taken by surprise or materially weakened by the prior attack from the air.

SE TRANSPORTS

The position — be it an airfield, a road junction or a railroad station — is then consolidated as quickly as possible. Machine guns are mounted to command the terrain. Then, just as speedily as possible, reinforcements are dropped from the skies or, if feasible, are landed in big transport planes.

IN DISGUISE

Some of the German parachute troops, it is claimed, have been wearing enemy uniforms when landing in The Netherlands and the probability is that special recognition signals were arranged, or an arm band or some other distinguishing device worn.

Using these tactics in the Low Countries, the Nazi parachuters have seized airports, as at Rotterdam, and have prepared the way for landing of transport planes in such numbers as to enable an advance into Rotterdam itself.

In the heart of The Netherlands and Belgium, they have established islands of resistance, thus forcing the high commands of the two nations to earmark many of their reserves for duty in the interior, instead of being able to utilize their full strength in the front lines.

Germany has been openly charged by the French with dropping parachute troops disguised as Dutch and Belgian soldiers in violation of international law, and the French have warned that Nazi soldiers found wearing other than the German uniform would be shot instantly. Through neutral diplomats, Germany has replied that if parachute soldiers were dealt with "contrary to international law," severe reprisals would result.

However, if Nazis land in German uniforms and are captured, they must be treated as prisoners of war, according to these experts.

How well Germany will succeed in further dropping of parachute troops in the Low Countries, with the surprise element now removed and the "borers from within" locked up, remains to be seen.

Holland has announced that she has virtually completed mopping up pro-Nazi "Fifth Column" elements. Every civil and military arm, including the army, the police, air raid precaution service and provincial troops, was employed in wiping out activities of pro-Germans.

It is stated that while a few traitors may still be unapprehended, the extensive governmental measures of precaution have visibly decreased their activities.

By choking off the "Fifth Column" within The Netherlands, military authorities claim, bases for landing of new Nazi parachute troops have been eliminated.

Without the aid of local residents, it is asserted, landing of parachutists in a populous vicinity is doomed beforehand to failure.

PRELUDE TO FLIGHT—Their parachutes strapped to their backs, parachute squad awaits takeoff in giant transport plane. Given instructions, before flight, these men know their duties — carry them out well.

— THE AMERICAN —

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has met the new and grave crisis in Europe exactly as it should be met, with the sharp and prompt reminder that nothing has happened to decrease the chances for keeping the United States out of the war.

What has happened was expected to happen, and of course was bound to happen, in view of the unrelenting determination of the European belligerents to refuse acceptance of any reasonable basis of peace.

The United States is shocked by these events.

The United States, however, is compelled by these events to pay still closer attention to its own security and peace, because the menace to these is greater and graver.

In fact, nothing short of TOTAL MEASURES FOR AMERICAN PREPAREDNESS AND DEFENSE will now suffice.

Hitherto Congress has been debating our wisest and safest course.

Now the Congress must decide upon and PURSUE the wisest and safest course our peaceful country can take.

Now is the time to fortify and arm and equip and build.

Now is the time to provide our own America with the greatest air armada in the world.

Now is the time to put the American Navy at its peak of efficiency.

Now is the time to provide the latest weapons and munitions science has devised for the use of the American armed services.

Now is the time to instruct and train the expert and skilled technicians required for the proper functioning of modern instruments and engines of war.

We have foolishly, but not yet fatally, delayed our defensive preparations.

But we cannot safely brook further delay, lest it indeed be fatal.

While the United States is in no immediate danger of war, we cannot afford half measures or anything less than full and complete measures for keeping out of war.

In the meantime, let us recognize that while these are times of extraordinary danger, they are also times requiring extraordinary calm and unity.

Europe's tragedy is beyond our power to prevent or assuage. Happily, however, our own American security and peace are still capable of being preserved, and we should patriotically and intelligently and completely devote ourselves to their preservation.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE, retiring from motion picture stardom at the early age of eleven, as Columnist Louella O. Parsons predicted she would weeks ago in an exclusive story published in the Boston Evening American, is doing nothing new or radical.

There is abundant precedent for Shirley's action.

In fact, no juvenile actor or actress in Hollywood history has been able to continue an uninterrupted career on the screen. Madge Evans attempted that feat and failed. So did Jackie Coogan, Baby Marie Osborne, Jackie Cooper, Ben Alexander, Mitzi Green and Peggy Montgomery.

But the "awkward age" overtook and tripped them all.

Two or three child "luminaries" particularly the talented Mitzi, were reasonably successful later on, but the majority disappeared completely and were never heard from again.

The reason is generally understood. The period between the tenth and twelfth birthdays is a critical time for most children.

Limbs are stretching towards maturity, and they often appear ridiculously long or at least out of proportion with the rest of the body.

Features undergo a more or less drastic alteration.

Characteristics change similarly.

And, unlike the happy fate of the caterpillar which enters its cocoon as an ugly worm and emerges as a beautiful moth, the human metamorphosis is not always for the better.

In fact, the caterpillar's situation is frequently reversed by girls and boys.

Consequently it is almost axiomatic to say that handsome babies become homely men and women, while the "brats" of childhood are usually the beauty contest winners of adulthood.

But Shirley need not worry. With more than a million dollars on deposit in banks, she ought to be able to look forward to a better than average future.

Meanwhile, she can lead a normal life, meet girls and boys her own age and really live, as every child ought to live.

That is the important thing.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, May 14—Saturday was a day of no official engagements, but in spite of that it turned out to be a fairly well occupied day.

Again and again I had to decide my ability to do certain things within the course of the next few weeks. I finally concluded that if one could divide oneself into many different pieces it would be most convenient and, above all, one should have no personal life!

Sunday, however, was a day when all of us left the White House at noon and went down the river on the Potomac for lunch and an afternoon on the water.

MR. NORMAN DAVIS, chairman of the American Red Cross, went with us, for the President wanted an opportunity to talk with him.

The appeal has, of course, gone out for everyone to co-operate with the Red Cross chapters all over the country in raising a ten million dollar fund. Whatever else we do, we can alleviate human suffering.

I hope all to the extent of their ability, will feel that this is an individual appeal made to them to help those who suffer throughout the world.

The Ukrainians in this country have written me a rather pathetic appeal, in which they say that refugees from what was once their country, are scattered all over the world.

They will raise money among themselves here, if only they know how to reach their own people who are suffering in other places. I am making an attempt to find out what can be done, but when people are so scattered, it is a difficult thing to know how to assist them.

I HAD a personal appeal, too, from some neighbors in Hyde Park, who wanted to know about their closest relatives in Norway, from whom they heard nothing since the war engulfed that country.

Another woman, whose husband, a German liberal scientist, has been imprisoned in Russia for many months, can get no news of him.

Altogether, my mall these days is pretty heartrending.

A little book of poems has been sent to me by the author, H. Nelson Hooven, called: "The Laughing One." I think you will find pleasure in reading his lines and inspiration in much of his thought.

I wonder if he is right in this: "Darkness is only a shadow on the ground."

Behind us lie the things we have fashioned.

Before us, ever, an invitation to beauty."

I left on the midnight train to go to New York City to keep a number of appointments and returned again to Washington by the night train.

WIFE OPPOSES NEW GARFIELD ROLE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 14—Mrs. John Garfield objects to her husband's assignment to play "The Patent Leather Kid" for Warner Bros. . . . They attended the Ambers-Jenkins fight, and Garfield was very much enthusiastic about the new lightweight champ. "Before I do 'The Patent Leather Kid,'" Garfield stated, "I'll get Warners to hire Jenkins as my opponent in the big fight scene" . . . "Oh, no," Mrs. Garfield corrected. "Before you do 'The Patent Leather Kid'—you'll fight the Warners."

WALTER WANGER is taking Grant Wood, Thomas Benton and Luis Quintanilla to Hollywood to paint the portraits of characters he's using in his next picture . . . Frank Chapman, the singer and husband of Gladys Swarthout, now is under the "silent treatment" because of throat trouble. He's not permitted to speak a single word for two weeks . . . Burns Mantle, the drama critic, has become a member of The Players—the first time in years that a reviewer has been allowed to join . . . Oscar Cox, assistant counsel to the Treasury, is favored for one of the new Federal judgeships . . . Alma Ross, who is Mrs. Louis Prima, will be the new Hawaiian dancer at the Hurricane.

ELEANOR HARRIS, the screen writer, is in N. Y. now preparing a screen story about the seven Ringling Brothers . . . Miss Harris and Louis Bromfield wrote the screen story for "Brigham Young." Darryl Zanuck, mindful of every detail, had a corps of Mormons always at hand to examine every line written by Bromfield and Harris, to assure that it's all accurate . . . The intrigued Bromfield therefore placed a sign on the door: "Quiet. Mormons at Work."

ONE of the veteran publicists of the Ringling Bros. circus beat his chest in anguish, bewailing the circus tradition which he thought was being violated. "Germaine Aussey, the French screen star, just arrived in America to marry John Ringling North," the press agent explained. "There's a dream setup for a circus man. We have a tent seating 14,000 people . . . Yet North and Miss Aussey selected the Huntington Valley farm of Joe Bryan, 3d as the quietest place where they could be married."

DURING the coronation celebration in England the name of Woodruff became known throughout the world when he excitedly gasped, while broadcasting the fleet exercises: "The whole fleet's lit up." This uncensored phrase, broadcast via a round-the-world hookup, had many reverberations . . . Woodruff enlisted at the outbreak of hostilities. He now is one of the censors.

GLADYS SWARTHOUT

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Monte Proser's (and Tom Maren's) The Beachcombers should rate a "must" position on any after-dark sightseer's list if, for no other reason, this: . . . The show does not open with a dance by the chorus in which the girls mumble stupid lyrics, to be followed by a pair of eccentric dancers, the vocalist with the band, a ballroom or adagio duo, the chorus again, the alleged star or stars, and the chorus again . . . More positive claim to the joy-makers' affections held by The Beachcombers is that the place has atmosphere and coziness.

STARTING FROM THERE (THE BEACHCOMBERS) a brisk five-block walk can be interrupted advantageously at the Mayfair, in time for Billy De Wolfe, the Coconut Grove, as the Loomis kids are working, the Latin Quarter while Janet Carroll is warbling and Kitty Brando's at eight p. m. or five to midnight when Ethel Barrymore Coit is on stage . . . By doubling back a block and a half, an interesting way to greet the circus is by listening to an Arizona cowboy named Herb Lewis in the Coconut Grove's air-cooled Melody Lounge . . . As he sings and plays his own accompaniment without reverting once to type and singing "Home on the Range," or any other cowboy lament.

SPEAKING OF COWBOYS—don't get too high on Lightweight Champion Jenkins . . . They say the woolly westerner is a "bleeder," and that Hammering Henney Armstrong will slash him into defeat . . . Speaking also of sightseers (as we were in Paragraph 1), Washington's hearses and funeral cars carry the letter "s," and "a," in that city, stands for "sightseers" . . . It's a companion note to the one about Maine's hearses wearing the state slogan, "Vacationland." Or has that been changed?

ANOTHER OMISSION is neglecting a visit to the Ritz Roof in a center along the Rialto . . . One adds only another block and a half from Kitty Brando's . . . But the Ritz does not open until tonight, and reservations have been speedier than ever for a Ritz opening . . . It will be Ruby Newman's night tonight . . . And Ed Wyner's last-season-plan to try to engage Mary Cohan, daughter of George M., for a between-sells appearance at the Ritz will jell probably very shortly . . . The Cohan miss—as sweet a little lady as ever had had luck in matrimony—has found a helpmate finally . . . The new husband writes her material . . . And although George M. is unbending—if the new husband proves able to earn a living there's a chance that the marriage—and Mary—will be accepted up their in Fifth avenue . . . The First Actor-Author-Composer-Song-and-Dance-Man is unhappy in a family feud than any of the various opposite halves of the disagreement . . . At any rate, watch for Miss Mary Cohan as a Ritz attraction, probably in July.

EVEN IF THE RED SOX had Peeewe Reese, Joe Cronin would be silly to bench himself for the alleged young phenom . . . Peeewe is hitting in the .300s, too, but in a softer league and is riding the bench . . . Also, he booted one of the "croocial" games. (All games played in Ebbetts Field are "croocial") . . . SEEKS DAVID NIVEN FOR FILM LEAD

By Louella O. Parsons

David Niven

HOLLYWOOD, May 14—You will probably see David Niven in a movie sooner than you expect. Samuel Goldwyn is planning to produce "Undersea Boat" by the late Sidney Howard in England as quickly as Archie Mayo can cross the sea. Sam decided because of the frozen assets he has in England (it is impossible because of the war to take money out of Great Britain) that he will utilize the cash he made in the London banks to finance this British made movie.

David is now with the Highland Light Infantry and it seems likely that he will be able to get eight weeks leave of absence in which to make the picture for it will probably be considered important from the business standpoint and studio space has been rented at Denham.

BETTY FIELD

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Andrea Leeds and Bob Howard will give C. S. (Seabiscuit) Howard the title of grandfather in the late summer; 'tis rumored Darryl Zanuck offered Irving Berlin $150,000 for the film rights to his musical, "Louisiana Purchase"; the hottest romance in our town is Alyce Mills Davey and her ex-boyfriend, Bill Davey; the inside reason why the Spencer Tracys will visit Canada before they return to Hollywood, is revealed. They want to buy a Canadian island and use it as a retreat.

VELOZ and YOLANDA are planning to come to Hollywood after the birth of their baby to join with the Arthur Murrays in opening a dance school; Gaydon Kanin and Betty Field are an every night twosome; Kay Francis started something new when she wore her watch on her ankle at Arrowhead Springs, saying it made a white spot on her wrist; Gene Tierney and Eddie Albert a dinner twosome at the House of Murphy; Joan Valerie, Edgar Bergen's favorite friend, spent her birthday in bed with a severe case of laryngitis.

FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW is nursing a sprained ankle suffered when he fell off a horse on location; Victor Mature is showing Dorothy Kelly, a visiting debutante, the town; Dick Foran and Irene Delroy, former musical comedy actress, in ringside seats at Slespie Maxie's; Martha Raye's brother, Buddy, opens Wednesday at the Torch Club; Mary Pickford reaches here in time for the Doner's luncheon for the Jewish Home for the Aged at Ciro's Wednesday. She is honorary chairman and Elsa Maxwell is active chairman. Mrs. Louis B. Mayer is official hostess; Billy Burke, Eunice Barnes and May Robson among those who have sent in acceptances.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

SOME YEARS AGO I knew an old-time physician who was noted for his ability to foresee the sex of the babies he had contracted to bring into this work-a-day world. All his clients and their friends knew that he never failed in his forecasts.

I KNEW this much-discussed doctor very well. Since I am always anxious to learn anything new or unique, I determined to call upon this Oracle of Babies one afternoon and collar him.

"Doctor," I said, "I have been working with you for a long time. Will you tell me this secret of yours? How can you tell so unerringly whether a baby is to be a boy or a girl before birth? I understand from your patients that you are never wrong."

The old-timer smiled at me and invited me to sit down while he took up the conversation.

"Son," he began, "it was my patients who were never wrong. It was not their physician. In 25 years I've never had a mother disappoint me."

"But, sir," I returned, "I—I don't understand."

"You will," he confided. "I'll tell you how it's done. Here is a small black book which I always carry with me. Mrs. Smith stops at my office, let us say. After our talk is finished and I have examined her, she says, 'Doctor, do you think it'll be a girl or a boy?' I answer that in all probability it will be a boy. Then I take out my little book and turn to the S's. I write: 'Mrs. Smith—girl.'

"BUT—you just said that she was to have a boy," I rejoined.

"Just so," the doctor assured me. "You see, when the baby is born a boy, Mrs. S. says, 'You were right, doctor, it IS a boy.'"

"But what if it turns out to be a girl?" I inquired.

"Why," said the versatile medicine-man, "Then when the mother says, 'Oh doctor—you were wrong. You promised me a boy,' I turn to the S's and show her the entry which reads, MRS. SMITH—GIRL!"

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

WHOOFS for Mr. Tokes! He has refused—and definitely—to allow a flock of bathing beauties to pose promiscuously all over Uncle Sam's Boulder Dam. There should be, opines the indignant Secretary, a limit to leg shows. And a Federal Project is it.

And you, I've nothing against thighs, shins and ankles—per se. And I'm 100 per cent for the modern kid's sketchy sport clothes and bare skin cult. When I think of the four starched petticoats I lugged around at 17, the three-inch "chokers," long union suits, ridged stockings and high shoes—(remember the hump above your shoes, Mom, where your underwear folded over?) I could scream from sheer ecstasy.

MAYBE I'm fussy—but, after all, girls had shape even in 1890. And calves—though you didn't mention them—were supposed to be an essential adjunct to the human tibia.

But I defy you to detect anything even remotely resembling a calf in this stampee parade.

Every time I see a line of them doing their stuff I have a flendish impulse. Remember the picket fences we had as kids, Bill? And how we'd race along with a stick going chukety-clackety-clackety-clack from pocket to pocket. Well, darned! I don't want to do the same with these miles 'n' miles of prize-winning shanks.

It isn't their lack of lard, however, that licks me most with these Lamey Legs, but their complete dearth of variety. Doesn't matter who they are—creatures they hail from—when you've seen one of them you've seen them all.

They all totter on three-inch heels. They all smug through breeched hip hogs.

They all have two pairs and two only—a Center or a Satellite. And they all have that Come-on Stare. But what have you got when you get there?

IN SHORT, as you may have guessed, I'M SICK OF PRIZE COTEST STAMPS. But I'm not blaming Miss Son From So or Los Angeles, Miss Chicago, St. Louis, New York or Miami for enticing 'em. We, the Great American People, started this outdoor sport.

AND DOES IT NOT DO JUSTICE TO OUR INTELLIGENCE AND GOOD TASTE? Yes, it does NOT!

Grandma's Styles Parade

Instead of the usual glamorous fashioning for 1940 which are shown at most fashion shows, gowns worn by the well dressed ladies of the Gay Nineties will be featured in a fashion parade on the spacious lawn of Mrs. George Lyons' Brookline estate Thursday afternoon.

The affair has the novel title of a "Costume Census" and is designed to give amusing sidelines on what our grandmother wore to greet the census man back in the good old days. It is part of the program of the Farm and Garden Association's all day plant sale which will take place under the apple trees at Mrs. Lyons.

Attending the dress rehearsal this afternoon will be Mrs. Lyons, who will parade in a handsome corded silk with a dolman of plush and fringe and a bonnet tied under her chin. Mrs. Harold Tobey will wear a costume which belonged to Mrs. Lyons' mother and has been exhibited by the Colonial Dames and elsewhere.

You Can Be Beautiful

This 'Souffle' Cream Instant Cleanser

By ARLINE GOULD

SUCH A triumph of whipped, soft lightness is a brand new cleansing cream that it's called a "souffle" cleanser . . . and it's been created with the thought in mind of hot, grimy summer skin that can't bear the touch of anything heavy or greasy!

And it is also nominated for example of perfection among cosmetics because it is equally efficacious on dry, oily or normal skin types!

Because the prime-combating oils in it are so finely broken down, this is a speedy cleanser . . . it whips into your pores, evicts the gunk and make-up and you can instantly wipe it off, with an easy, light touch.

That's a great consideration when you want so much to give your complexion the benefit of extra cleansing . . . like after lunch, or before an early dinner date when you can't get home for a shower and change, or at a time when you've left only five minutes for a personal clean-up interval in between the vacuuming of your living room and the arrival of the bridge club in force! You just whisk it on, whisk it off!

If you don't quite understand the beauty potentialities of frequent face cleansings . . . just try a three-day routine for a week. You'll be amazed to see how much fresher and clearer your complexion is . . . as well as softer and cleaner. That should be proof enough!

If you would like to learn the name of this exquisitely light, quick-action "souffle" cleansing cream that's brand new for all types of complexions, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 400, weekdays until 5:30, except Saturdays, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For you can easily write letters that make a good impression when you have pointers on English, correct form, vocabulary.

Our 40-page booklet, How to Write Letters for All Occasions, has many interesting sample letters to guide you in social, friendship, business situations. Explains letter etiquette, gives English and vocabulary pointers for charming, friend-winning letters.

For instance, a summer resort frock might have the fitted bodice and sleeves with midday blue stripes running up and down . . . and the wide flared skirt, cut on the bias, places them diagonally.

Another frock, shirtmaker style, might have a center section, all the way from chin to hem, set in with stripes sewn to make a herringbone pattern. This is considered an extra special trick for slimming.

But perhaps the latest number is a "windcatcher" skirt that shows a striped lining when the breeze blows.

This skirt may be worn in reverse to show the gray and white stripes. With it is a lumber jacket blouse of plain gray chambray.

Try Whole-Fruit Nectars

By MARTHA LEE

If you have just a little time but want big flavor results when you make your next family dessert, try the whole-fruit nectars in a molded pudding.

Their richness of flavor is due to the fact that the finely crushed pulp is included as well as the fruit juice. For a choice blend of fruits choose the peach-nectarine variety.

PEACH-NECTARINE MALLOW-GEL

- 1½ cups peach-nectarine nectar
- 18 marshmallows
- 1 tbsp. gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- ½ tsp. grated lemon rind
- Few grains salt

Combine nectar and marshmallows and heat to boiling. Remove from heat, add gelatin moistened in water and stir to dissolve. Add lemon juice, rind, and salt, and blend. Cool until thick but not firm. Beat until light and frothy (placing container in bowl of ice water while beating saves time). Pour into molds and chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream or soft custard. Any nectars of the whole-fruit variety—peach-nectarine, apricot, pear, plum or peach—are interchangeable in this recipe. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A splendid luncheon dessert or a sweet ending for a Sunday night supper is Dixie peach-nectarine sherbert, an original version of the well beloved fruit-and-nut theme.

DIXIE PEACH-NECTARINE SHERBERT

- 4½ cups peach-nectarine nectar
- ½ cup peanut butter
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2 tbsp. gelatin
- 1 cup cold water
- 3 tbsp. lemon juice
- ¼ tsp. salt

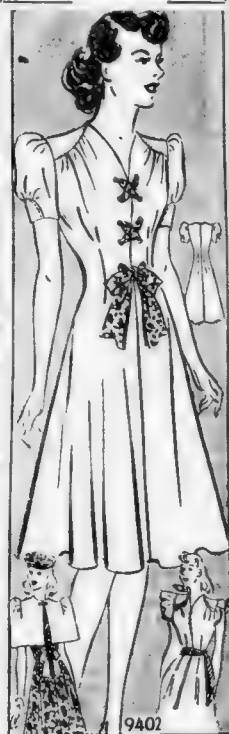

Combine 1½ cups nectar, peanut butter and sugar in a saucepan and heat to just below boiling point stirring continuously. Moisten gelatin in water, add to hot mixture and stir to dissolve. Add lemon juice, salt and remainder of nectar and stir to blend. Pour into an ice cream freezer and freeze until firm. Remove dasher and pack freezer with ice and salt. Let stand one hour or longer. Apricot, pear, plum or peach nectar of the whole-fruit variety may be substituted for peach nectar. Makes enough for a two-quart freezer.

NECTAR TAPIOCA PUDDING

- 3 cups whole-fruit nectar
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ½ tsp. grated lemon rind
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ cup quick-cooking tapioca
- 2 cups finely chopped apple
- ½ cup chopped nut meats
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice

Whipped cream
Combine nectar, sugar, lemon rind and salt and bring to a boil over direct heat. Add tapioca slowly, stirring continuously. Add apple and let come to a boil again. Place over water and cook from 7 to 10 minutes, depending on variety of apples used. Stir occasionally. Remove from fire, add nuts and lemon juice and stir to blend. Chill and serve with whipped cream. Use apricot, plum, peach-nectarine, pear or peach nectar. Makes 6 servings.

BLONDIE

YOU know how it is with some names—they sound a little strange to begin with, and then, because of their spelling, it's almost impossible to get them right on paper.

That's the way it was with James Joseph MacGeoghagan. Of course with close friends, and people who'd known him all his life it was easy enough to call him Mac or Jim . . . but the rest of the world had a terrible time.

And, as is usually the case, under such circumstances, James, himself, was sensitive to a point on the subject.

"Yes," he'd tell somebody, "the name is Macgeyagaygen." That's the way he pronounced it. "I suppose I'll have to spell it for you," he'd go on. And then he'd spell it. Nine times out of ten, the other person would get the spelling wrong, and the most common error was the habit of writing "Mac" instead of "Mc," or vice versa. That makes quite a difference. One, the first, means that your ancestry is Scotch, and the other means that it's Irish. James was one of the Scotch MacGeoghagans, and while he had nothing against the sons of Erin, he wanted it known he was a "Mac."

So it isn't surprising that one evening as he smoked his pipe after dinner, he spoke to his wife, Peg, on the subject.

"Peg," queried James, "you've registered for the 'phone correctly, haven't you?"

UP THE LADDER

"As if I wouldn't," replied his loyal spouse. "Haven't we gone without a 'phone this long time, and now that we're getting one, do you think I'd slip up on it?"

James smiled. The telephone marked an important milestone in his progress, which was and had been gradual, but which was measured by sound common sense. Acquisition for the MacGeoghagans was a matter of careful planning. The fact that a telephone, which to them was a luxury, was at last to be installed, meant that another rung had been passed.

"No," he said, "Peg, I wouldn't. I hope they spell the name right in the book."

"Well, I certainly spelled it out carefully enough," Peg said. "They couldn't be so stupid as to get it wrong."

"I hope so," he said. "Anyway, we'll soon find out. The book comes to us in a short time, doesn't it?"

"They told me we were just in time for the edition that goes to press soon. We'll have it in a week or two."

The ensuing three weeks passed without any serious infractions of the name MacGeoghagan, and James was impatient to see it blazoned forth in the pages of the telephone directory. His faith in human nature was very nearly restored, and he was optimistic enough to believe that at last he would enjoy the supreme triumph told me we'd won, and hung up. I'll have to tell him, tomorrow."

JAMES JOSEPH MACGEOGHAGAN, a Scotch contractor whose pet peeve is the fact that few can pronounce his name correctly and that less than a few can spell it correctly.

Peg shook her head. She knew there was no reasoning with her husband on this subject, yet—yet, she also knew how much the job would mean to MacGeoghagan and Schmidt. Then James shrugged.

"We'll leave that till tomorrow," he said. "Now," his face lit up, "there's the new book. Have you looked?"

Peg's face turned crimson. "Yes, yes, I have," she faltered. "Well—well, what's wrong?" He reached for it, and quickly thumbed

Joe Schmidt. Well, it proved what his father had always told him—a partner was a liability, nothing else. And Joe would know it in the morning. Still, as he looked across the living room at Peg, and thought of the things she had done without—all the sacrifices she had made upon the altar of his principles, he wondered for a moment whether or not he was right. For a moment only, and then returned to his consideration of the foul errors of the telephone company. As though in answer to his thoughts, the instrument rang.

"Don't go near it," barked James. "It was then that Peg put her back up."

"If I'm to have this telephone for one night only, I'll talk over it now," she announced with decision, "and you can growl like a bear at you've a mind to."

"But—but, it's a matter of principle," stammered James.

"Principle yourself," she replied, and lifted the receiver from the listed in the Mc's instead of the Mac's."

She told him then about the great treasure hunt conducted by a radio broadcasting company, and how they searched at random through telephone books to pick the lucky winners. "If they'd spelled your name right, you'd not have won."

James MacGeoghagan bridled.

"Then the money's not mine," he began, "and I'll not—"

"You'll not what?" her eyes were dangerous and for once in his life James decided that his wife was a woman of spirit and that, in this instance at least, he'd not cross her.

"Nothing, nothing at all, my dear," he answered mildly. "In fact, it's an odd name we have, but it's done something for us this time. Matter of fact, I don't think I'll make those people change it or correct it at all. Maybe spelling it the Irish way has brought us luck, of seeing his name correctly spelled in print.

An Odd Name By Shane O'Neill

Then, too, the small contracting business in which he was a partner had been doing well. The job just completed showed a profit, and after drawing their modest salaries he and Joe Schmidt had had the pleasure of seeing a balance of three hundred and forty-eight dollars in the bank.

"What with no overhead," James had said, "it wouldn't be long now before we can really get into the money."

"We could get into it now," Schmidt replied, "if we wanted to borrow a little capital."

The Caledonian jaw of the MacGeoghagan set. Of all things in life, his greatest horror was of debt.

"We'll move up," he answered, "when we've earned the right to move, and not before, I'll borrow no money."

Schmidt hesitated. "We could have figured that new school addition," he said, "and got it, too, if we could have posted a thousand dollar bond."

"And get into the hands of the money-sharks. Nothing doing. There'll be plenty more big jobs, when we're ready for them."

WHAT'S WRONG?

There was regret in his voice, and he failed to notice the expression on Joe Schmidt's face. The matter was still on his mind when he got home, mixed as it was with his glee at the thought of the new telephone book.

No sooner had he got in, when the new 'phone rang. Peg answered it, and then called him.

"A Mr. Dunready wants you," she said. James racked his mind as he walked to the instrument. Dunready . . . Dunready, who was Dunready? Then his face set into harsh lines as he picked up the receiver. Now, he knew.

"Hello, Mr. Dunready? . . . yes, yes, it's me. What? We did? Well, sir, I'm sorry . . . but . . . oh . . ."

He hung up the receiver, and his expression boded no good for his partner.

"Jim, Jim, what's wrong?" Peg asked.

"There's wrong enough. Joe Schmidt figured that school addition job on the quiet. We'd have to post a bond and get the money from the bank to do it . . . and I won't borrow. Dunready is the superintendent, and he called the office, and just missed us. Then he got me here . . . had a little trouble, too. Well, we've got the job . . . and we can't take it. I couldn't tell him over the phone, because he was in a big hurry, just through to the Mac's. "It's not here, what's wrong?"

"Look under plain Mc." And there it was. James' face darkened as he read it. This was the last straw.

"It's another thing I'll have to do in the morning," he grated. "Not a cent will I pay them. They can take the thing out. We'll not use it again."

Once more his wife was quiet, although her heart was heavy. The telephone, longed for so long, had been a real boon to get. To lose it now was terrible. For once she felt like rebellion—and then, the softness she always held in her heart for her tall, stubborn husband overcame her.

"I'll fix dinner," she said and quietly returned to the kitchen.

PEG ASSERTS SELF

The dinner that James MacGeoghagan had been anticipating with the quiet pleasure of a simple man who has worked hard and well, sat heavily on him. He failed to get his usual enjoyment from the Scotch and soda afterward—one of the few luxuries he permitted himself. His mind kept returning to two things he had put out of it until the morning. The nerve, now, of hook. "Yes, yes," she said, after a pause, "that's right, MacGeoghagan. Oh-no, it can't be. Not honestly? Oh, thank you—how did you find—"

When she returned to the living room, her pretty pink face was triumphant. MacGeoghagan sat silently, waiting for her to speak. Then Peg laughed, and at length, he asked crossly, "Well, well, what is it about, who was it?"

"You've won a thousand dollars," she cried, "enough to pay your bond and take that job Schmidt figured." Then laughter overcame her again, while her husband sputtered that he'd never heard of such a thing, he'd never gambled in his life.

"But you've won it—and do you want to lose it now? Because the telephone directory has your name

"Yes, yes," she said, after a pause, "that's right, MacGeoghagan. Oh-no, it can't be. Not honestly?"

They're supposed to be lucky. Maybe that's it." She didn't answer him. In her shining eyes was a dream—a dream of a rich and possession-filled future, during which an amiable but never-ceasing battle raged about the spelling of that odd name—MacGeoghagan.

THE END.

THE RULES

- 1-The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States except employees of the Boston Record-American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $100 or more in any newspaper contest.
- 2-Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each week day in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c/o the Boston Record-American, Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after the series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.
- 3-One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those contestants who, by their solution, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant will win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.
- 4-In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In case of final tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.
- 5-In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein after the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.
- 6-To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of tie-breaking puzzles.
- 7-Contestants that are not signed by the Boston Record-American for prizes will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be recognized. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the remoteness of the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestants.

Dizzy Dean: Portrait Of a Thwarted Hero

DIZZY'S IN TOWN!—NOT THE RANTING, bombastic, vocal acrobat that was Dean in his prime, but a sedate, silent and moody man. And from Chicago comes the whisper that the Cubs, convinced that the old eccentric has burned the filament out of his arm, are about to turn him loose. It's a bit sad!

AUSTEN LAKE

whinney of mules and the long sun-drenched afternoon of doing nothing.

"Baseball," he said then, "is just a sideline anyhow," and he had told on his finger the various money mediums he possessed toward riches—a cereal company's contract for $30,000, a gasoline hookup for $10,000 and objects of advertising endorsement for $20,000 more.

Those, while not exactly figments of his imagination, were outlandishly beyond the truth. For Diz was a pathological prevaricator who liked to trim the truth into paper doll shapes. Like a painter he used the colorings of his imagination as pigments to improve dull facts and, though his fibs were never malicious, they merely traced to a desire to make his legend loom a little larger, as one who prefers fiction to autobiography.

And now... "Yuh don't want nuthin' from me," he said. "I ain't news any more." I say it's a bit sad, because in the drab, workaday round of business baseball, sport needs its Dizzy Deans, its Max Baers, its Tony Galentos and kindred slapstick geni. The country needs to laugh in these sordid times.

The "Home-Going" Guy

"THE MAGNIFICENT PEST," ONE CHICAGO newsman labelled Dean last year when heaving one of his copyrighted tantrums. He isn't now! "The most docile, quiet guy in the club," said another Chicagoan today. Curious! For it was just three years ago that I sat in his New York hotel room where he was packing his wardrobe for a midnight Pullman jump to Boston. His shirt sleeves were rolled up displaying a faded tattoo design of a purple hand and the Latin word "fide" thereon. He was in the middle of his ruction with President Ford Fricke over his croak-calling speech which had made the front page headlines of the nation. He was frankly unrepentant and said, "I ain't takin' any abuse from nobody. I don't need it!" He had an independent bankroll, he said, and would fulfill his eternal threat to "go home" if liked by too much authority. He was, as one of his teammates said, "the goldenrulest 'going-home' guy in the game."

But now, faced with the prospect of being sent home, perhaps forever, he is pathetically anxious to stay. He wants to be one of the boys! Funny! as you talk to Dean now he answers in monosyllabic undertones, his voice trailing off to mumbles as though sensitive at being overheard. His teammates don't bother to listen! But previously, in his heyday, when he spoke in his throaty, dominating tone, chat languished elsewhere. Then his mates assumed an air of quizzical deference as though pausing to locate the hum of a hornet, with faces puckered with a mixture of admiration and annoyance. And then his mind had worked at tangents, his ideas leaptfrogged each other in mid-flight, so that the recitation was one of first wavings, frowns and he-hes and I-sees, with Dizzy parading some priceless gem of his own wit and gurgling self-appreciation in a bull baritone. But not now!

Here's Luck Diz!

DIZ IS ONLY 31, AN AGE WHICH is the physical peak of most pitchers. But he has only the whisper of the fast ball which used to wobble past batters in a white blur. He throws custard pie balls now, pitches which vary between slow and slower and depend on a tricky arm motion to make batters mix their feet. So batters who used to stand with their knees bent, ready to jump backward, are crimping their toes and swinging from the pants pocket.

So ends the era of one of the game's most distinguished characters. Or does it? The pitcher who once boasted his ability to run his league president out of baseball, who slurred the league umpires without penalty, who challenged his own club mates, who threatened to desert, who ridiculed his bosses and flouted discipline, has become one of the well-washed and docile boys in the front pew.

This spring he stopped being Dizzy and became Jay Hanna Dean, simple and unassuming. Having become less of a pitcher he began to be less of a talker. He was tractable and accepted a $15,000 cut. The day was gone when he could say, "No matter what they offer I won't like it." He agreed to terms, after a brief pot, swore to a clause on good behavior, pledged allegiance to his manager and went to work. But also...!

This reveals a hitherto concealed sub-strata of intelligence in Dean's makeup. He has a sense of proportion! Also he shows a genuine love for the game. He now makes no mention of quitting baseball. Prosperity's contempt has been replaced by adversity's respect. Once more he yearns to be one of the "seven great pitchers of history," as he once labelled himself. And the baseball world is quick to wish him luck.

Hurch Points to Sox As Pennant Winners

By JOE CASHMAN

CHICAGO, May 14—Here's something new in hunches. As our league-leading Red Sox inaugurated their first western invasion of the season in the opener of a two-game series with the White Sox at Comiskey Park today they learned that in some quarters out here they and the Pale Hose were being installed as co-favorites to win the pennant.

And all because of World War II. Silly maybe, but no sillier than a lot of other superstitions, after you hear the whole story.

Remember World War I from 1915 to 1918? In '16 and '18 SOX WON. In '16 the Boston Braves won their first and only flag. In 1915 and 1916, the Red Sox were A. L. champions. The Chisox succeeded the Fenway flock on top in '17. In '18 the World Series brought together the Red Sox and the Chicago Cubs.

Since the boys came marching back from "Over There," Boston hasn't had a flag and the White Sox haven't come through since Peace Treaty days in '19. I think the hunch players, with Europe aflame again, this is the year for either Boston or Chicago. War or no war, the Croninmen certainly aren't a bad bunting bet at this time. Leading in the race by 1 1/2 games, it's still to be shown that they're not the best club in the loop.

KEY TO WIN HOME GAME

The Pale Hose, in the cellar when they were last in Boston, still in the second division, and still to win a game at home, don't look so hot. But Manager Jimmy Dykes thinks his charges have a chance.

"Any one of five clubs can win this race," chirps the pepper-pot pilot of the Pale Hose, "and we're one of them. The others are the Red Sox, Indians, Tigers and Yankees."

"The Indians have shaped up as the strongest against us. They have shown us great pitching, and that's all important."

"I don't think as highly of the Red Sox as most people, probably because my White Sox trounced them soundly last season, but I must admit that there's plenty of punch in the Boston lineup. Cronin could win this race if he gets a little better pitching and catching than he did last year."

YANKS TEAM TO BEAT

"The Yanks are by no means out of the running, as I look at it. If they have a good Western trip they'll be the favorites to beat in my books. Should their slump continue on this trek, though, it may be safe to forget them."

"With the Tigers it's a question of how long their veterans can stand up. If fellows like Gehringer, Averill, Barrell, Higgins and Bridges don't bog down in the warm weather that'll be a tough club to beat."

"As for my outfit, I am confident it will secure be in the thick of the contention. After a bad start it won seven out of 12 games on the recent Eastern swing and is now only a half-game out of the first division."

EDGED BOSTON LAST YEAR

"Certainly, we can't be dismissed as possible winners. We'd have landed in second place last season if it hadn't been for the Yanks. We took 14 out of 22

HARTNETT'S CUBS FACE B'S AT HIVE

By BILL GRIMES

After losing three in a row to the Giants, the Bees will entertain the Chicago Cubs this afternoon at National League Field in the first of a three-game series.

Nick Strincevich, the rookie right-hander from the Yankee cham gang who was drafted from Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League, will be on the mound for the Stengelese. It will be Nick's home debut and he will be seeking his second victory of the season.

Despite the fact that they have won only six verdicts out of 18 starts, and in the face of the 10-inning encounter they lost in Chicago, the Bees believe that they have an edge on the Cubs.

BAD NEWS FOR BEES

At this stage of the National League race, the Bees have played 10 games against Eastern clubs and eight with the Western loop. And, of these six wins, three were scored over Pittsburgh, and one over St. Louis, Cincinnati and the Phillies.

Bill Lee, the giant right hander, will be on the points for the Cubs. Lee blew a decision to the Pirates on his last time out but he is usually bad news to the Bees.

Dominic D'Allesandro, the former Red Sox midjet outfielder, will be in left field for the Cubs and the local fans will get a chance to pass judgment on Bill Rogell, another Red Sox cast-off of a decade ago, as a National Leaguer.

Manager Casey Stengel is elated over the fact that he doesn't have to look at the Giants for awhile. The Twain are riding high, having now won six straight games. Due to the five tilts they have taken from the Bees, the Giants are right up in the middle of the fight for National League honors. And, they are not looking for much trouble from the Pirates, with whom they open a three game series this afternoon in the Polo grounds.

HURLERS HIT NEW LOW

The Bees have encountered some mediocre pitching this season but yesterday their hurlers reached a new low. While trying to stop the Giants in the third and final game of the series, Manager Casey Stengel called upon no less than six pitchers. And, but for one perfect inning by Frank Lamanna and two by Joe Callahan, they were all found wanting.

Joe Sullivan opened the game and after one round was through for the afternoon but not until the Giants had stepped out in a three run lead. Sullivan acted as though he was cold when he went to the mound and before he got warmed up the Giants had nicked him for a single and a home run, which combined with a wild throw into left field by Les Sciselska, cost him three runs.

Then came Frank Lamanna, who got by in the second inning but ended and aborted by a boot by Towell, who aside from that one chance played a fine game at second ball, went for four runs in the third and the showers.

There was nothing sensational about Al Laver's fourth inning exhibition, during which the Giants pushed across two more runs, so the North Oxford flinger bowed out in favor of a pinch hitter.

CALLAHAN TOO WILD

Joe Callahan, the East Boston star developed a wild streak after getting two Giants in his first inning, the fifth, and passed Whitehead and Moore but Chet Ross saved him from any trouble by gathering in Demaree's hoist. Then, Joe set the Giants down in order in the sixth and seventh and he looked to be out of the eighth inning when suddenly he, and umpire Lou Jorda, went wild.

Jorda called at least three pitches wrong, and Callahan became so upset that he walked five in a row, forcing over two runs, after two men were down.

Cronin Clicks As Traffic Cop For Sox Staff

CHICAGO, May 11 (AP)—Joe Cronin plays plenty of shortstop for the Red Sox but last night as busy serving as traffic director between the Boston bullpen and the pitcher's mound.

His clever handling of a 500-pitching staff accounts in a great extent for Boston's front running position in the American League as the first swing through the West begins.

The Red Sox have won 15 of 22 games, but only five times has the starting pitcher been able to finish a game. No one pitcher has started and finished two games. Thus 17 times Shortstop-Manager Cronin has had to wave in relief from the bullpen—usually the veteran Joe Heving, rookie Herb Hall or Jack Wilson.

This trio has won seven victories against one loss. Fine relief work and experiments with the mound employes have kept the offensively powerful Red Sox ahead of a hot Cleveland team.

Cronin has used 10 pitchers in 22 games and all of them except Heving and Charles Wagner have received at least one starting assignment. Hash, 25-year-old Minneapolis recruit, has been the most effective, winning three, losing one, and allowing 11 hits and five runs in 20 innings.

But Cronin isn't discouraged over this heavy bullpen traffic. He hopes to come up with a couple of reliable starters from among the seven under 30 years of age to go with spring Bob Grove and Fritz Ostermuller.

Hudlin May Join Red Sox Staff

Dame Rmors today had Willis Hudlin, who was handed his outright release by the Cleveland Indians, joining the Boston Red Sox hurling staff.

It was reported that the Red Sox would make the 34-year-old veteran a bid. Hudlin, a 10-year-man, won two games and lost one this year. Last year, he captured nine and dropped ten.

St. Thomas' Nines Have Two Games

The St. Thomas' Intermediates will clash with the J. T. Fallon Post in a baseball game at the Carolina ave. playgrounds tonight.

The St. Thomas' seniors will have the St. Mary's Club of Charlestown as an opponent at the Carolina ave. playgrounds on Friday night.

BOSTON'S HOME TO HIM—Dominic D'Allesandro used to outfield for the Red Sox. Trade winds finally blew him to the Cubs home port. He has won a steady berth, is doing a good job, and hoped to show Boston folks a hit or two at the Hive today.

Vander Meer in First Start Fails to Last

By Associated Press

The little game that wasn't there, a phantom baseball battle as far as the National League was concerned, was probably the lushest 14-inning interlude that ever ended exactly where it started.

It was an R.R. tie between the league-leading Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals with darkness finally halting the show. It also was one of three games played in the majors yesterday, the others likewise being in the National League with the New York Giants beating Boston 11-5 and Brooklyn downing the Phillies 6-3.

It is a story begun on an historic occasion. A flood April 23 washed out a contest the Cards had scheduled at Cincinnati. It was the first time a flood ever had caused postponement of a major league game. Later someone thought of using the open date both teams had on Monday, May 13, when they would be heading East together after playing a series in St. Louis. The newspapers were notified. Fans were told. It was a special Ladies' Day, and 8370 women thronged Crosley Field. But the National League office in New York didn't know anything about it.

NO UMPIRES ASSIGNED

President Ford Fick didn't assign any umpires. Later, George, one of the league's regular staff of arbiters, was called enjoying a day off at his home in Cincinnati and summoned to duty. Coach Jim Wilson of the Reds and Pitcher Lon Warneke of the Cards were pressed into service, and the game got started half an hour late.

Manager Bill McKechnie kept it unique by sending Johnny (Yeh Double No Hit) Vander Meer to the mound for the first time this season. Before he could get anybody out in the fourth he had given up five walks and five hits, including three home runs.

This was only the evening Johnny Mize hit three home runs and Joe Oengone one for the Cards.

Bill Weber of the Reds tied a major league record by getting four doubles. Cincinnati used five pitchers and St. Louis four. With the score 7-7 Claude Shoun of the Cards and M. Shaffner of the Reds, both southpaws, bailed out 5-6 times a game from the seventh through the 12th.

GAME CALLED

In the first of the 13th Mize hit his third home and the Bees walked right back with a run on a pinch double by Bill Herschberger and a single by Weber. That was the way the game ended an inning in which Claude Gertz called the game because of darkness.

The tie kept the Reds half a game in front of the second-place Dodgers, who put down the Phillies with a minimum of effort. All the Philadelphia's three runs were scored in the fifth, Hugh Casey holding the visitors scoreless before and Vito Tamulis shutting them out after. Manager Leo Durocher made four hits to lead the assault on the Pearson.

50,000 See Two Openers

Newly, 50,000 two baseball fans flooded to municipal ball parks last night for the opening round of the season in the 1940 Boston Park League premier drive. One of the largest crowds recorded in two seasons, 12,000 persons, saw the Red Sox open the season against the Boston Braves in the first game of the season. The game, which was held at the Municipal Stadium, was a doubleheader. The first game was won by the Red Sox, 1-0, and the second game was won by the Braves, 1-0. The total attendance for the two games was 50,000.

The game was officiated by Bill McGinnis. The Red Sox were managed by Casey Stengel and the Braves by Walter Johnson. The game was a doubleheader, with the first game starting at 7:00 P.M. and the second game starting at 8:00 P.M.

28 Favorites Mean Little In Goodall Round Robin

By BILL GRIMES

Down at Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., a field of 15 of the top ranking golf professionals are tuning up their games at the Fresh Meadows Country Club for the third annual Goodall Round Robin championship of champions.

Pres. Elmer Ward of the Goodall Co. (Palm Beach suits) who was the 1930 New England amateur champion, is the founder of the Goodall Round Robin tournament. Two years ago, he conceived the idea of staging this unique spectacle, offered a purse of $5000 and invited the 15 leading pros to play in the first annual Goodall at the Kenwood Country Club, in Cincinnati.

During the rounds of the 1933 Goodall Round Robin, Henry Picard piled up such a lead that he appeared to be unbeatable. But anything can and does happen in Round Robin events, and Sammy Sneed and Gene Sarazen came from behind to pass Picard, and at the end of the required 126 holes were tied. Slamming Sneed won the play-off to pick up $1000 and the Goodall Trophy, which, incidentally is valued at $500.

A year ago, the second annual Goodall was played at Fresh Meadows. At the start of the sixth round, Light-Horse Harry Cooper had a 19 point lead over Craig Wood but the latter staged a spurt and came within two points of catching the winner.

IDEAL FOR GALLERY

The round robin set-up is the stiffest of all tests for the participants. The field is limited to 15 contestants, who are divided into five threesomes, and by the time that the seven rounds are completed every player has matched holes with the other 14 competitors.

Elmer Ward selects the field for the annual Goodall Round Robin tournaments from the showing of the pros in previous year's championships and the winter flying circus. Every pro in the game is anxious to make the Goodall, for bids to play in that event establish the players as belonging to the elite of golfdom.

Of the 1933 field which competed at Fresh Meadows, Sammy Sneed, Craig Wood, Paul Runyan, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Hines, Horton Smith, Jimmy Thomson and Dick Metz are the only repeaters.

Byron Nelson, the U. S. Western and Massachusetts open title holder, Henry Picard, the P. G. A. and Metropolitan open champion, Jimmy Demaret, the country's No. 1 prize winner from Ft. Worth, Tex.; Gene Sarazen, Lawson Little, Clayton Heafner and Martin Pose, who is the open champion of Argentina, were invited to fill the vacancies.

DEMONSTRATES SKILL

With the game's greatest sharpshooters competing for the $5000 purse, the Goodall Round Robin is even tougher to predict a winner than a United States open championship. And, from the standpoint of the gallery, the Goodall is ideal for with the entire field in five threesomes, the spectators can watch the parade pass any given point in 45 minutes and then move to another point of vantage.

Byron Nelson is the pre-tournament favorite, but the field is studded with so many top notch stars that the odds are unusually short. Henry Picard is receiving strong backing as are Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan, and Sammy Sneed.

The Goodall field has been practicing at Fresh Meadows off and on for more than a week. The 15 contestants are quartered at the Forest Hills Inn, which is located almost on the course.

The first round will be played Thursday afternoon, after the $1000 Golf Lesson during which each of the players will demonstrate his favorite shot, while Horton Smith explains to the gallery, how the shots are executed.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the field will play two rounds daily.

CONTRACTS MEALS RACING RULES

By JACK CONWAY

Sweeping changes have been made in the rules governing racing in Massachusetts, according to an announcement made today by Chairman Charles F. Connors of the State Racing Commission.

The Puett electrical starting gate came in for some consideration. In the event the door in front of a stall fails to open at the start of a race, money will be refunded that was wagered on the horse that didn't have a chance to get away with the remainder of the field.

If two horses, other than an entry, are prevented from getting started as a result of the failure of the gate to open the race shall be declared "no race" and the money refunded. If the race is a stake race, it shall be run over within 12 days. The starting fees will be refunded, but the nomination money will stand.

CHECK ON OWNERS

The Racing Commission also passed a ruling which will prevent directors, officers, employees or persons acting in an official capacity from running horses at the track with which they are associated.

The method of claiming horses has been changed. All claims now be filed 30 minutes before the time the first race is scheduled to start. Formerly it was possible to make a claim before any race.

So as to protect the public, all changes in weights over half a pound must be posted at the track.

The commission refused to charge its stand on jockey's agents. There will be an office set up at Suffolk Downs where the jockeys will be given mounts. The association will conduct the office under the supervision of the racing commission.

ON MINUS POOLS

The commission also ruled that even in case of a minus pool the smallest payoff may be 10 per cent on $1.

The rule changes include:

No director, and/or officer, or employee of, or any person acting in an official capacity for any duly licensed association conducting a running horse racing meeting shall run any horse in his ownership at that meeting or any horse in which he has any interest whatsoever, for any violation of this rule the guilty person or persons may be suspended or ruled off.

OVERWEIGHT RULE

Amend Rule 142 of the Rules of Horse Racing to read as follows:

If the overweight is more than half (%) pound in excess of the weight the horse is to carry (the owner and trainer consenting), the jockey shall declare the amount of the overweight to the clerk of scales at least forty-five minutes (45) before the time appointed for the race, and the clerk shall have the overweight posted immediately on the notice board and an announcement made over the loud-speaker system. Failure on the part of any jockey to comply with this rule shall be reported to the stewards.

RULE ON CLAIMS

All claims for the day must be deposited in the claiming box at least one-half hour (30 minutes) before the advertised post time of the first race of the day and not later, and no official of said association shall open or give any information as to the filing of the claims until after the race for which the claim was filed has been run.

JOCKEY MAY EXERCISE

A trainer shall not enter or start a horse in any race that is a known bleeder or any horse that has been trachea-tubed.

A jockey temporarily suspended may be permitted to exercise or gallop horses during the morning hours and to lodge on the grounds of the association at night, but his badge shall be taken up and he shall be refused admission to the grounds during racing hours.

No person shall serve or act or be recognized as an agent of any jockey or apprentice jockey licensed by the Commission. Riding engagements shall be made through a "Jockeys' representative" in the Racing Secretary's office, who shall be selected by the Racing Association.

tion and approved by the Commission.

During the term of disqualification of any owner, trainer, jockey or any other participant in racing, the privilege of his admission badge shall be revoked and he shall be refused admission to the grounds of any association, except the stable area, unless otherwise provided in these rules.

If the doors at the front of any stall gate should not open when the Starter dispatches the field, thereby causing a horse to be left, the Starter shall immediately report the name of the horse to the Stewards, and the Stewards shall order the money bet on such horse to be deducted from the pool and refunded to the purchasers of tickets on that horse. If one horse or an entry or one of the horses grouped in the field should leave the gate, there shall be no refund on the entry nor on the field.

30 Keeping English Colors Near Top of City Pole

EVENING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, MAY 14, 1940

BARRAGE—English High pitchers do a unison hurling stunt. Left to right are Charley Lavanchy, John Kelly, Fred Gillis, Jr., Bill Gagen and Joe Sacco. Gillis is son of the assistant superintendent of Boston schools. These five form the backbone of the intown school's battery group.

WAR COUNCIL—Capt. Joe Rosetti, center fielder and a three-year veteran, weighs hill strategy with Coach Bill Ohrenberger as they look over hurlers at right. Rosetti has been a first-rate all-around performer for Boston English since his sophomore year.

Hunch Players Predict Sox Will Win Flag

games from the Red Sox. We didn't lose a season's series to any rival but the Yanks. We couldn't climb higher than fourth because we lost 13 out of 22 games to the champs.

"The New Yorkers won't do any such job on us this year, if indeed we don't edge them for the season. So I'm claiming some prominent consideration for my lads.

"Whatever happens and whoever wins, I can't see how the current race can fail to be one of the closest and most interesting in modern American League history.

NO SOFT SPOTS

"Every club, except the Yanks, appears to have strengthened. There's no longer a soft touch in the league. The Brown's, A's and Senators cause you as much trouble as any first division foe.

"Anything can happen. Even a White Sox pennant."

Joe Cronin is inclined to scoff at the White Sox as a flag threat, but he has a world of respect for them as antagonists after the trouble they caused his hired hands last year.

In fact, the Skipper is as much concerned over the two games here as he is over the more or less crucial engagements in Detroit and Cleveland next week.

That's why he's chasing out Mose Groves against Johnny Rigney this PM, and hasn't yet made up his mind who he'll start tomorrow.

"If we grab these two games," chirps the Fenway foreman, "I'm sure we'll have our most successful road trip in years."

EAGLES TRY AGAIN; FACE TUFTS TODAY

Freddie Maguire's Boston College nine, defeated by Villanova, 5-3, Monday, at Alumni Field, was to attempt to re-enter the win column at the expense of neighbor Tufts this afternoon on the same diamond.

The defeat by the powerful Villanova team was the sixth in a row which the hapless Eagles have suffered. Not since the opener with Fordham has Boston College been able to post a win.

The conquest was Villanova's 12th in 13 games, and a pair of local lads did much to contribute to the Eagles' downfall.

MILTON BOY HURLS

Connie O'Leary, clever right hander from Milton, pitched six-hit ball for the Mainline Wildcats and though his team won by but two runs, he was never in any real trouble.

After holding the Chestnut Hill collegians to four hits and a single marker in seven innings, O'Leary lost his poise for a moment in the eighth frame, passed Bob Cromwell and then threw a home run ball to Ed Sawyer.

Johnny Donohue, the other local in the Villanova lineup, was a further headach to Boston College. The Somerville lad's single in the first frame knocked in the initial run of the game, and in the fifth inning, when Villanova scored three runs, Donohue hit a hard ball on which Pitcher Ronnie Corbett made a disastrous wild throw and one of the three runs scored.

MAGUIRE USES LEAHY

Although touched for 10 hits, three of them by hurling adversary O'Leary, Corbett might have escaped defeat had his support been a mite better.

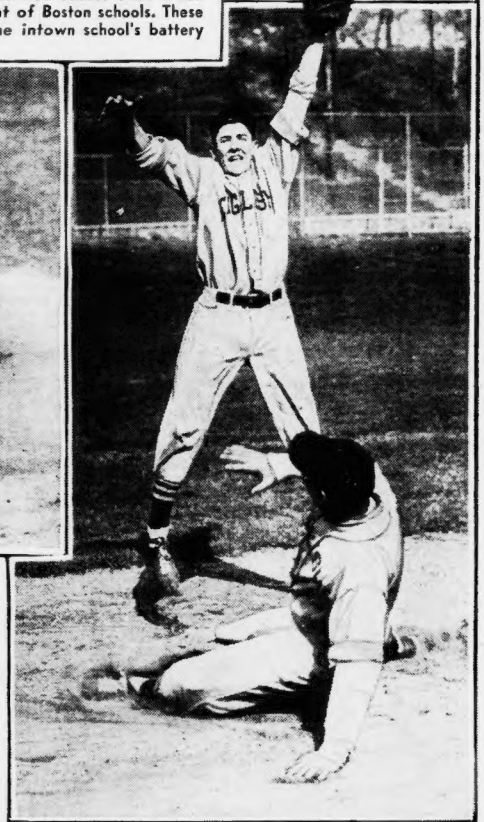

For the Tufts game Coach Maguire will probably call upon curve ball thrower Fred Leahy, the Somerville boy who gave Boston College its lone victory—the Patrol's 2-1 conquest of Fordham.

Tomorrow afternoon at Alumni Field, the Eagles will contest their third game in as many days. Providence will furnish the opposition.

HE'S SAFE—Third Baseman Bob Green goes away up for a high throw, and Joe Sullivan slides safely into third. Sullivan is a regular English outfielder who has been first-basing in the absence of injured Tom Brennan.

Hub Plans 2 Girls' Softball Nines

Girls' softball will officially open at the Garden a week from Thursday with the first few tilts being of the exhibition variety. The New England League will start here in Boston on June 11.

This much was settled yesterday at a meeting of the League teams. It now appears as if Boston will have two entries in the loop, the Olympets and the Totem Pole Girls.

The Stamford Nutmegs, Portland Girls, Fisk Girls of Chicopee Falls, Franklin Cleaner Girls of Springfield, and the Burnham Brady Girls of Hartford, will round out the circuit.

Rollie Cote of Springfield, Jim Hogan of Chicopee Falls, Wayne Davis of Portland, Ed Bella of Stamford, Harry Clark of Hartford, Ben Lovias of Totem Pole, and Howie McHugh of the Boston Olympets, all agreed that it was the strongest array of teams in New England, and each felt that their team had a fine chance of winning the title.

Commissioner Pat Rooney of Athletics is now drawing up the schedule. He expects the two Boston teams will play four games each week; two at home and two on the road.

The Boston contests will be held at the Garden every Tuesday and Thursday night. Both Hub teams will play each game night. This means that the Boston clubs will travel on week-ends.

Happy Days for Mass. Anglers! 80,000 YOUNG SALMON LIBERATED TO SPAWN IN TWO LOCAL RIVERS

By DARK MONTREAL

Cheeriest news in years concerning the future of angling in Massachusetts is this: The State is stocking Atlantic salmon in great quantity in the North river and the Parker river.

All last week the stocking was in progress in the Parker river. Forty thousand young parr were liberated in the great hope and sound expectation that they will follow the unwavering salar urge to go down to the sea for growth and return as salmon for the fulfillment of their destiny on the gravel spawning beds in the rivers of their youth.

All this week the stocking will be under way in the North river where 40,000 fish will also be planted.

IMPORTED FROM CANADA

These 80,000 young salmon were raised from eggs by our own fish and game division. Some of the liberated fish are a year old, some are two years old. The ripe eggs were imported from Canada, stripped from Gaspe peninsula fish, as fine Atlantic salmon as exist.

The salmon stocking program opens up a vista of the near future that will capture the imagination of every angler in the state, and I think Director Agnew is deserving of three cheers for carrying it out.

Beyond any doubt the state has chosen the two best watersheds for this experiment. Pollution in both the North and Parker is at the minimum or entirely absent; both are sturdy streams despite summer drouth, already supporting many species of fresh and salt water game, and feed is plentiful. Both have the swift courses, the deep pools that the salmon love, and both provide the clear shallows for the spawning beds.

DIRECTOR VERIFIES TIP

Director Agnew has been hiding his light under a bushel insofar as his salmon stocking program is concerned and the news came to me in round-about fashion from Mr. E. C. Lane, my reliable Georgetown field agent. The director verified it with detail.

North River salmon stocking is something this department has advocated for years as a result of the annual capture of several salmon in the south shore stream. I have a theory that more salmon than any of us are aware have been using North River.

They are not fished for, as salmon, and have been taken for the most part by anglers using rod and bass lure or bait. That they have been caught is not mere report: I saw one caught and know well an angler who caught another, and saw the fish in both instances. One was a bright fish, fresh run, the other appeared to have spent some time in the river working upstream.

2 YEARS AT BIRTHPLACE

Salmon on the average spend two years in the river of their birth in the parr stage, then becoming smolt, assuming their silvery sheen and dropping down to the sea where they grow swiftly, some returning in a year's time as grilse.

Director Agnew will close to fishing those stretches of the North and Parker rivers being stocked but some of these fish are in the advanced parr stage and will drop down the river beyond the closed area. This department makes a special appeal to all anglers to return unharmed any such that may be caught.

MANY WILL DIE

Some of these 80,000 small salmon will die with elvers in their gills, and some in the beaks of the herons and some in the jaws of the big trout and the stripers; and some will go down to the sea and be unable to respond to the homing instinct because they were not actually born in the rivers stocked. But thousands of them will live and go down to salt water and find their way back and spawn in the upper reaches of the North and the Parker, and the natural hatch will in turn go down and return again and we may have in Massachusetts within the period of a few short years, the two finest salmon rivers on the Atlantic coast of our country.

Well, I had some reports of weekend fishing but they'll have to wait.

8000 See Angel Pin Steve Casey To Win Mat Title

The Angel is today world's heavyweight wrestling champion as a result of his victory over Steve Casey before 8000 persons at the Garden. The Angel was proclaimed champion when Referee Gus Sonnenberg, a former world's champion himself, disqualified Casey for knocking him over during a mixup in a neutral corner.

Casey and The Angel each had a fall to their credit at the time, and the decision of Sonnenberg gave the Frenchman the deciding loss.

BOTH OUT OF RING

Casey won the first fall in 31m. 30s. when The Angel was counted out while outside the ring. Casey and The Angel had crashed through the ropes and bounced off the floor of the Garden.

Casey was successful in getting back into the ring before the fatal count. The Angel was on his feet about to climb into the ring when he was counted out.

The Angel used his famous bear hug to gain the second toss in 3m. 3s. The Angel's great strength enabled him to force Casey to the canvas. He then pounced on the Irishman for the fall.

Casey was forcing the issue when he tangled up with Sonnenberg. Gus thought Casey was using illegal tactics, and tried to send him back to the center of the ring. Casey used his shoulder to knock the dynamiter to the canvas. Casey then opened fire with both hands on the Angel.

FREE FOR ALL

Sonnenberg soon regained his feet. In a general mixup that followed, Casey, The Angel, Jim Casey, brother of Steve, Karl Pojello, The Angel's manager, and Sonnenberg fought it out. At the conclusion of the free-for-all Sonnenberg disqualified Casey and gave the title to The Angel. The time was 2m. 58s. The Shadow and Bobby Managoff went 30m. to a draw.

Ed Don George, looking in excellent physical condition, tossed Charley Stark in 1m. 2s. with an inside crotch hold, body lift and slam.

Gene Pussell, after a rough match, won from George Linnahan in 15m. 31s. by means of a flying tackle. Jim Casey and Olaf Olsen went 10m. to a draw.

Ben Shalon won from Billy Baruch by disqualification for roughness in 8 m. 37s.

Rudy Dusek and Piedro Brazil engaged in a 10m. draw.

ROOM AND BOARD By Eugene Ahern

SERGEANT EDDIE Mack, who is promoting the ten-round bout between Coley Welsh of Portland and Howell King of Springfield, at Mechanics Building on Thursday night, insists that the record proves that middleweights furnish the most action.

As the Sergeant reached for the record, he inadvertently pulled out a piece of paper which had on it the names of half a dozen horses running at Narragansett Park.

"I am not betting today," said the Sergeant. "I am too busy ballyhooing Welsh and King to find out whether the horses are hot or cold."

The Sergeant finally came up with the correct record. Here it is:

Jack "Twin" Sullivan against Bill McKinnon, Frank Klaus and Eddie Connolly.

Leo Houck against Buck Crouse, Frank Klaus and Battling Levinsky.

Mike Gibbons against Tommy Robson.

Mike O'Dowd against Johnny Wilson and Joe Eagan.

Jimmy Gardner against Joe Walcott, twice, Frank Klaus, twice, Bill McKinnon, Tommy Quill and Jack Blackburn, the latter new trainer of Joe Louis.

Bill McKinnon against Hugo Kelly, Harry Lewis, Tom McMahon, Sailor Burke and Eddie McGoerty.

Joe Thomas against Tommy Sullivan, twice, Honey Melody and Sailor Burke.

Mack overlooked Billy Papke and Bob Moha which was one of the poorest middleweight bouts ever held in this city. Moha entered the ring with a broken hand and stalled through 10 rounds, while Papke had long passed his ring peak and was making an easy financial touch.

How Gibbons Lost Crack at Wilson

WHEN JOHNNY Wilson was world's middleweight champion, Mike Gibbons sought a title bout. Tex Rickard finally consented to give Wilson a $50,000 guarantee, while Gibbons agreed to deposit another $50,000 which would go to Wilson in the event he lost his championship. If Wilson won, Gibbons would get back the extra $50,000.

While Gibbons waited for the signing of the contracts, he decided to come to Boston for a tune-up bout with Tommy Robson of Malden. Robson was a slow, awkward middleweight, but was blessed with a terrific right hand punch.

Gibbons figured he would outpoint Robson easily. Instead he was almost knocked out in the first round, Gibbons was lucky to go the distance, and his proposed bout with Wilson never materialized.

Wilson had won the middleweight title by defeating Mike O'Dowd in Mechanics Building. O'Dowd protested the decision of Referee Hector McInnis so strenuously that it was necessary for Wilson to trounce O'Dowd in a return go in New York in order to convince the fans he was a real champion. I never saw a champion give a challenger a more severe thumping than Wilson handed out to O'Dowd in New York.

Coley Welch and Howell King will have plenty of ring tradition to shoot at when they start tossing blows on Thursday night. I have seen King in action against Henry Chmielewski on two occasions. Chmielewski won the first bout, King the second. In those contests, King convinced me he has an abundance of ring class.

Welsh has done most of his boxing in Maine rings and is rated highly by Chick Hayes.

Royal Gasproof Cot—Fleeing to London with Queen Wilhelmina and the Dutch royal family, gasproof cot bearing Princess Irene, is carried by her father, Prince Bernhard and a nurse. His wife, Princess Juliana, also sought refuge there.

Newsman at Work—Serving in the regular army, German newspapermen are often brought head-on into the thickest fighting and most dangerous areas. Here, in Norway, cameraman films destruction of a shelled and blazing building as fellow newsman stands by. Over thirty of these men have been killed since start of European war.
